AFTER MANY DAYS

Mellville W. Fuller is Confirmed as Chief Justice.

EDMUNDS AND EVARTS'S LAST KICK. Georgia's Portion of the River and Harbon Bill-The Savannah Appropriation

-Washington Gosslp.

WASHINGTON, July 20 .- [Special.]-There has been much delay over the confirmation of Melville W. Fuller, of Chicago, for chief justice, but the vote by which he was con-firmed today shows that even the republican members of the senate recognized him as an able jurist and eminently fit man for the place. The vote stood forty-one for to twenty against confirmation. As was expected, the democratic members of the senate deemed it unnecessary to speak and, therefore, none entered into the long debate. On the republican side Senators Cullom and Farewell made strong speeches in favor of his confirmation, while Edmunds, Stewart and Evarts opposed

Naturally the latter were somewhat bitter, but their opposition proved of no avail. The democrats are unanimous of the opinion that Chief Justice Fuller is the ablest selection that could have been made. There were eight republicans voted with the democrats to confirm him. They were Cameron, Cullom, Davis, Farwell, Frye, Hill, Jones, (Nevada) and

WE CARRY THE NEWS. THE CONSTITUTION'S SCOOP, as usual, has been proven correct in regard to the Savannah appropriation and its Macon contemporary very badly incorrect. The conference committee reported today and, as has been repeatedly stated in these dispatches within the past week, the senate amendment relative to Savannah was stricken and the appropriation redued to $180,000 to complete the existing pro Just here it is due Senator Brown to say that although his amendment was lost in the conference committee, he did his part of the work well, for the senate conferees were unanimously in favor of the amendment, and only-gave it to the house conferees after a struggle. Had they held out the passage of the bill would have been endangered. However, Mr. Norwood will have an opportu nity next session to endeavor to have the 28 foot scheme recognized and secure a sufficien appropriation to wart work on it.

GEORGIA 3 PART OF THE BILL.

As the bill passed the house teday Georgia stands as follows: Harbors-Savannah, $180, 000: Brunswick, $35,000; Cumberland sound, $112,000. Rivers-Altamaha, $10,000; Chatahoochee, $2,000; Coosa, $6,000; Flint, $2,000; Ocmulgee, $7,500; Oconee, $10,000; Savan $21,000; Jekyl creek, $5,000; Romney Marsh, $4,633.

The bill altogether appropriates $22,277,116, an increase of $2,374,333 over the amount of the house bill originally. Two years have elapsed without a river and harbor bill. The present bill, therefore, really carries appro-priations for two years, making the amount for each year a little over $11,100,000.

THE TARIFF BILL. The vote on the tariff bill tomorrow looked forward to with much interest. Mr. Mills will make a closing speech, consuming about an hour, before the vote is taken. A vote will probably be taken up on the amendments as an aggregate, and then upon the bill

Mr. Randail, it now seems, will pair, for he sent a letter to Mr. Dowden today asking him to secure a pair for him, and to make it of record that he would vote against the bill if

Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, altsough a new mem ber, has developed into one of the very best members of congress. He is ever watchful and seems determined to prevent all wholesale depletion of the treasury for undemocratic For this reason he has serned the title of "Objector Kilgore." In fact he has almost robbed Mr. Holman of the title of "The Watch Dog of the Treasury." His objection today to the bill to provide aid for state home His objection for disabled soldiers and sailors caused quite a scene. Mr. Kilgore pronounced the bill a scheme to rob the laboring men; when Mr. Spinola, a very old and decrepid mem-ber from New York, replied that he "would hurl the declaration back into the dirty throat from which it ema-

Mr. Kilgore replied by stating that he would take into consideration the age of the gentle man who had just uttered the insulting langiven utterance to the words he would de ounce him on the floor as a liar. For a tim things looked quite breezy, but, as none of Mr marks, he withdrew his utterances against the Texan and order was restored. Had it not been for the age of Mr. Spinola the house would have been treated to an unprecedented scene. Mr. Kilgore is a native Georgian, hav ing gone to Texas from Newton county.

THE M'KINLEY INVITATION.

The failure of Senator Colquitt and Judge Stewart to invite Mr. McKinley to the Pied mont Chautauqua has been the topic of conversation around the house. Both have been censured. Judge Stewart states, however, that he was not concerned in the matter, as the letter was written to Senator Colquitt, and he was not asked to be a party to extend the invitation. He, however, was opposed to inviting Mr. McKinley, on the grounds as heretofore expressed.

CARLISLE TIRED OF PUBLIC LIFE Speaker Carlisle, it is understood, has writ om Washington to Harry T. Wilson, in which he says he will be a candidate for re-election this fall, but is in doubt whether he will ever allow his name to be used again for congress from his present district.

Judge Stewart spoke this afternoon in favor of the bill to pay Samuel Noble, of Alabams, for eight hundred bales of cotton destroyed by the union army. Mr. Noble claims to have been a loyal citizen, but nevertheless his bill was de-feated, even many southern men voting

Mr. Candler has gotten a pension for Mrs. Bill, of Gwinnett county. She gets $12 per month and $2,100 arrears. The president has signed the bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Flint river. E. W. B.

The Naval Bill.

The Naval Bill.

Washington, July 20.—The naval appropriation bill as reported to the senate today carries a total appropriation of $20,157,091, a net increase over the house bill of $154,000. Items are struck out as follows: For a commission to examine a site for a navy yard on the gulf coast $50,000; for an armored cruiser of 7,500 tons displacement, not to cost over three and a half millions. Among the new items in the bill are the following: A steel practice vessel, $275,000; three gunboats or cruisers not to exceed 1,700 tons in displacement, and not to cost more than $50,000 in all.

Launching of a Cruiser.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20 .- Thousards of peo ole assembled in the vicinity of the ship yards of the Union Iron works last evening to witness the aurching of cruiser No. 5, the first government vessel ever launched on the Pacific coast. General Howard and Commodore Belkuap, with a large number of army and navy officers, were on hand to witness the ceremonies. Governor Waterman, Mayor Pond, the board of supervisors, foreign consults and federal and state officials generally, with a number of newspaper men also occupied positions on the platform. Little time was lost in the preparation and the ceremony was brief. An artillery band struck up an inspiring strain as Mr. Scott, general manager of the Union from works, gave the signal. Miss Alice Scott, his daughter, broke a bottle of wine over the side and christened the new cruiser "Charleston," and amid the booming of cannon, the screeching of whistles and shouts from thousands of throats, the ve-sel glided slowly off the ways and out into the stream. The launch was pronounced successful in all respects. el ever launched on the Pacific coast.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Hon.
Fred N. Sturdwick, presidential elector for the state at large, while riding with a friend of his in the suburbs of the town of Hillsboro on Monday last, had the misfortune to fall.
Both he and his horse went into a well thirtyfive feet deep. The well was covered with boards, which looked secure, but when the horse got on them he and his rider were precipited to the bottom. The wonder is that both were not killed outright. When extricated from that place Mr. Studwick was found to be seriously, if not fatally, injured.
Some hopes are, however, entertained of his recovery.

The Terrible Flood About Wheeling.

RAILROADS COMPLETELY WIPED OUT. Valuable Bridges Carried Off-Fearful Destruction of Property-Several Lives Reported Lost. Etc., Etc.

WHERLING, W. Va., July 20.—The loss of life from the flood last night is at least twentyfive. About fifteen bodies have been found so far. The money loss is about $150,000. The greatest loss of life was along Wheeling creek and at Triadelphia. A search this morning resulted in the discovery of a number of bodies near the latter place. Most of them were found among the drift, which collected at Elm Grove. The body of William Gaston, aged sixty years, a prominent and wealthy person, was found near Elm Grove. His wife's remains were found two miles below Elm Grove hanging on a barbed wire fence. Charles Caulbell, of the Wheeling News Letter, aged 50, was found among the drift wood. Mrs. Jane Fay and her two grown-up daughters. Alice and Mary, were discovered a short distance below Triadelphia and the bodies of two prothers, named Gorman, were found in a neadow, where they had been hurled by the urious waters.

Later and authentic details from Triadelthis show that destruction was more appalling here than anywhere else. Fifteen families are homeless, and saved nothing but what they had on. Half this village of 600 inhabi-tants was swept away, but all but those before amed escaped to the hills. The storm extended sixteen miles east of West Alexander, Pa., and the scene all along the way is one of esolation and inconceivable horror. Where he Triadelphia schoolhouse, a large building of six rooms, stood, the creek is now a raging ood, and not a vestige of even the foundation remains. The whole south

A thirteen-year-old son of Daniel Richie, and a twelve-year-old boy named Eddie Hathaway are missing. The creek is still dangerous, bridges caved in, and telephone and telegraph lines are down. The fall of water from 6 to 6:55 o'clock by the gauge was 6½ inches. It is impossible to give any details of losses tonight for the reason that those who suffered cannot estimate their own loss as yet and every resident of low ground suffered damage ranging from $1,000 to $10,000, while those on the hills lost valuable crops, fences, etc.

The Baltimore and Ohio company's loss will reach $350,000 at the lowest estimate, and the county losses of houses, bridges and school-houses will be at least $60,000, Wheeling narrow, gauge $5,000 and the natural gas company

THE TRAIN DERAILED.

Two Negroes Who Will Most Likely be Lynched During the Night.

CHATTANOGA, Tenn., July 20.—[Special.]—
Two scoundrely negroes today wrecked the limited passenger train on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad at Blue springs, thirty miles from this city, and if they are not lynched tonight they have their necks in a noose which will soon be tightened by the law.

Law.
Engineer Griffin had the train flying along at the rate of forty miles an hour. When it darted around a curve near the switch, he saw, brave fellow, with death staring him in the face smained at his post knowing that unless the beed of the train was not lessened there ight be loss of life among the passengers, espite his efforts the train left the track, and the engine plunged down an embankment One-half of Griffin's skull was torn away and One-half of Griffin's skull was torn away and the poor fellow is still alive, but cannot live through the night. Fireman Hall received fatal internal injuries. No passengers were injured. The switch had been tampered with by two negroes, who were caught tonight by detectives. There is strong probability that they will be lynced.

Seven Men Killed by the Eursting of a Boiler on a Tug.

LOUISYILLE, July 20.—An explosion of a steam pipe that supplied the engine from the boilers caused the death of seven men of the crew of the tugbeat Convoy, at 1:40 o'clock this mention. this morning. The accident occurred twenty six miles up the river, near Westport, Ind., and most of the men were asleep at the time

Following is a list of the victims:
WILLIAM PACE, age about twonly-eight years, WILLIAM HARRIGAN, sixteen years old, resi-ence Soho, Pa.

ROBERT JONES, about thirty-five years old, mar-led, residence Jack's Run, Pa. WILLIAM BIGLEY, forty-two years old, married, esidence Allegham City, Pa.

GEORGE McCANN, twenty-four years old, resi-WILLIAM KELLEY, about thirty-five years old,

When the boat reached Westport, twentysix miles up, everything, according to the first mate's story, was running smoothly. He took a walk back to the cabin and found all quiet. He stopped and talked to a friend, George McCann, who was lying on a lower berth near the door. The latter half rose in his bed and "I'll soon be at home with my family." Then he lay down and went to sleep. The mate returned to the pilot house, and was conversing with Captain Reno, the pilot. They were then two miles above West-port. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion. The whole boat became enveloped in steam, and the machinery stopped. The captain, who was asleep, hurriedly dressed and called his men and made preparations to land. A yawl was lowered, a line taken on, and the boat towed ashore and made fast to a tree. Then the captain proceeded to the after-cabin, where the explosion occurred.

William Page lay near the door dead. Blood was rushing from his mouth and ears, and flesh scalded off his body. William Harrigan was in his berth. His death must have been instantaneous, for he lay in the same position as when he retired.

as when he retired.

Robert Jones was on the floor and barelt alive. He was horribly burned and lived bue fifteen minutes. He died with his wife's name on his lips. William Bigley was still alivs when found, but died in ten minutes. Charley Tuster was found outside the cabin lying on his face. He was not dead and told them that he had run out there as soon as he could recover from the shock of the explosion. He was almost baked; his skin was parched and little jets of blood stood out from the pores of his body. In two hours he was dead. George McCann lay dead in exactly the same position he was in when the first mate left him but a half hour before. William Kelley was pulled out from under his bunk mate left him but a half hour before. William Kelley was pulled out from under his bunk and was alive, but he was also terribly burned. Charles Chambers, the other man who slept in the cabin, was blown out of the door, and had a miraculous escape. Officers of the boat can give no conception of the accident, and say the machinery was inspected last February and was then in excellent condition. An inquest will be field this afternoon and all the bodies returned to Pittsburg.

Were the Inst Yords of a Murderer Executed Yesterday.

Montagello, N. Y., July 20.—Jack Allen was hung in the courthonse at 11:54 o'clock today for the murder of Ulsura Ulrich, at Jeffersonville last October. Allen had an iron nerve and sang and prayed under the gallows in a strong clear voice. He asked for a glass of whisky, which was refused him. He put the noose around his own neck and said: "Let her go, Gallagher."

The sheriff then pulled the lever and Allen's body swung in the air. His pulse stopped in eleven minutes and his heart ceased to beat in twelve minutes. He was cut down after hanging fourteen and a half minutes. The body was then given to an undertaker, and the interment took place in Potter's field immediately after the execution. He was an Englishman thirty-four years of age, and came to this country two years ago. He had no friends here and did not write to his English friends about his trouble since he has been in prison. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 20.—Hicks Carmichael, colored, who murdered Deputy Sheriff Shipe, on May 20th last, was executed today by Sheriff Jones, inside the jail in the presence of twenty-eight witnesses, the number re-quired by law. The hanging caused but little excitement, and only a small crowd surrounded the jail. Carmichael said he was prepared for death.

Montgomery. Ala., July 20.—[Special.]—At Clayton, Ala., today, Simon Pitts, a blind negro, who brutally murdered a fellow pauper last spring, was hanged for his crime. Just before leaving the jail for the gallows, he ate a watermelon and smoked a cigar with apparent relish. After the halter was placed around his neck he cried in a loud voice, "than we cently way, here, me wick but around his neck he cried in a loud voice, "Hang me gently, men; hang me quick, but don't choke me." His neck broke in the fall, and he died quickly. His body was sold to a local physician. The crime for which he was hanged was brutal in the extreme. He murdered London Walker by splitting his head open with an ax. Both were inmates of the county reordways and recommends.

A Drowning and a Suicide. RALEIGH, N. C., July 20.—[Special.]—E. E. Keene, a railroad contractor from North Carolina, was drowned in the lake at East Lake, a suburban resort, this afternoon. THE KISS OF PEACE.

Meeting of the Czar and Emperor William.

THE RULERS SMACK EACH OTHER. Great Day at Cronstadt-One of Uncle Sam's Ships on Hand-Other For-cign News of Interest.

St. Petersburg, July 20.-On the arrival of the German squadron at Cronstadt yester-day, the yacht Hohenzollern, bearing Emperor William, steamed into position close to the United States steamer Enterprise, at anchor, only one vessel separating the yacht from the American warship. The Enterprise arrived in the harbor yesterday morning. The German emperor was first welcomed by Grand Duke Alexis, who was taken to the Hohenzollern in a state barge. As he mounted the ladder to the Hohenzollern's deck he was met by the emperor and warmly embraced. Emperor William and Prince Henry then entered the barge and were rowed to the Russian imperial yacht Alexandra, on which the czar awaited the arrival of his visitor. The two emperors met at the gangway and embraced and kissed each other several times. M. De Giers, Russian minister of foreign affairs, General Von Schweinitz, German ambassador, and Colonel Von Villaume, military attache of the German embassy at St. Petersburg, were present at the meeting.

Foreign embassies and all of the private ouses along the route to St. Petersburg were profusely decorated, and the balconies were rowded with people. The German colony turned out in great force to see the emperor The weather was beautiful. M. DeGiers and Count Herbert Bismarck have had several in-

The weather was beautiful. M. DeGiers and Count Herbert Bismarck have had several interviews. On Sunday Emperor William will give a banquet on board of the Hohenzollern in honor of the czar.

On arriving at Prasnoe, the emperor on horseback and the czarina and children in an open carriage drawn by six white horses, inspected the camp. Then seated before the imperial tent, the party listened to the playing of the German anthem and a selection of German music. Evening prayer, tattoo and a discharge of rockets closed the day's proceedings.

London, July 21.—A Daily Telegraph's correspondent at St. Petersburg says he is reliably informed that the interview between the czar and Emperor William was of the most cordial character, and that as a result of it, Russia will in the future pursue a perfect policy. He says that there is now no danger of trouble arrising regarding Bulgaria. It says Prince Ferdinand will be allowed to reign on the ground that he will retain his position. When the prince is deposed, Germany will favor any candidate for the Bulgarian throne that may be nominated.

St. Petersburg as a last effort to conciliate Russia says:

The German policy remains in conformity with the German treaty. The presence of Prince, Ferdinand on the throne of Bulgaria has been recognized by Germany as a violation of that treaty. The two emperors will, in no wise, change the German attitude toward Prince Ferdinand.

The same paper published the reply of Herr Von Puttakamer to the Polish addresses presented to Emperor Frederick on May 29th. Emperor Frederick instructed Herr Von Puttakamer to say he never doubted the loyalty of the Poles, and felt confident that Poles within Prussia would prove by deeds their feelings of loyal devotion and gratitude they deserved from the organized state institutions and from members of the reichstag and landtag.

For Writing an Article Reflecting on the Speaker of Parliament.

LONDON, July 20.—In the house of commons today Lord Randolph Churchill asked the speaker for permission to question Mr. Coneybeare as to whether he was the author of a letter appearing in the Star, denouncing the conduct of the speaker in supporting the tory motion for closure of the debate on the second reading of the Bann drainage bill. The letter referred to accused the speaker of gross injustice to the minority and of a breach of parliamentary decorum, nothing short of public scandal, in assisting the government to suppress Lord Randolph Churchill thereupon moved the suspension of Mr. Coneybeare from the house during the remainder of the session. The letter, he said, was a gross libel on the speaker and a grave and deliberate insult to the house.

Fined for Importing a Preacher. New York, July 20.—In the United States circuit court today, Judge Wallace, on application of United States District-Attorney Walker, signed a decree over-ruling the demurrer of the rector, church decree over-ruling the demurrer of the rector, church warden, etc., of the church of Holy Trinity in the action brought against them by the United States. The suit was brought under the alien contract law to exact the prescribed penalty for bringing Rev. E. Waipole Warren to this country, from England, to preach under contract. A judgment for $1,000, the full penalty, and costs, will be entered immediately on behalf of the United States against the church. The case will probably be appealed to the United States supreme count. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

THE COVETED STOCK.

About Which the Railroad Magnates are Contending.

NEW YORK, July 20.—[Special.]— Wall street has been considerably exercised for more than a week over various rumors of an indefinite character, concerning suspected negotiations between the Richmond Terminal and the Nor-folk and Western railroad. Irresponsible gos-sip has twisted the story in every conceivable shape, but nothing strictly reliable has yet been published.

The facts in the case are these: The Terninal company owns 65,000 shares of East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad stock, which the Norfolk and Western wants to buy in order to control the entire traffic of that line, which is now, whenever possible, given to the Richmond and Danville, because of its alliance to the Terminal. Negotiations for the accomplishment of this trade have been and are still on foot, but the deal has not been consummated. On the contrary, the negotiations are suspended until next week. President John H. Inman, of the Terminal, having left town stock will be bought by the company and cancelled,

It is by no means settled yet what policy will be adopted, but one thing is certain, if the trade is made the purchase money will be used in the only way best calculated to improve the value of the common Terminal stock, of which the present directors bought so heavily to control the recent Terminal election. Outside of every other consideration, it is a big move on the southern railroad chess board, and is being watched with close attention. It is said Mr. Gould is backing the Norfolk and Western in the deal M. J. V.

THE ANARCHISTS AGAIN.

Discovery of Circulars Calling on Anarchists to Avenge the Blood of Their Fellows.

Chicago, July 20.—Inspector Bonfield has now in his possession copies of what nurports to be secret newspaper news, but what is in reality a secret circular differing but little from the famous "revenge circular" with which August Spies called the Haymarket meeting. The main difference is that the paper termed "revenge" calls for active steps on the part of the old-time anarchists to avenge the execution of Spies, Parsons, Lingg and Engle.—It is learned that this paper is being distributed secretly among the anarchist groups, and that, although it purports to be printed in a foreign land, it is really issued in Chicago.

It is said to be not improbable that the discovery of this sheet will lead to the arrest of prominent anarchists, not only in Chicago, but all over the country, and the police are only waiting till their chain of evidence is complete.

Inspector Bonfield said this evening that it is a fact that there was such a paper as that described in secret circulation among the anarchists and declared the following statement concerning it to be substantially correct. The paper has been started for working up the passions of the anarchists to such a point that they won't stop at anything to accomplish their revenge of the bloodthirsty martyrs. Certain articles are printed in three different languages, and urge that all true anarchists should take immediate and vigorous steps to intimidate the exponents of monopoly, and thus prevent similar "murders."

The Dynamite Conspirators Have a Hard Time of It. The Dynamite Conspirators Have a Hard Time of It.

Chicago, July 20.—J. A. Bauereisen, the alleged Burlington dynamite conspirator, was released from the custody of the United States marshal yesterday afternoon on furnishing $5,000 bond. He was then taken before a justice and a hearing on a state warrant set for Saturday. Another $5,000 bond was given, but Bauereisen was immediately re-arrested on a warrant sent here from Aurora, charging conspiracy to destroy the property of the Burlington company. He went to Aurora in charge of an officer, and last night after giving bonds in Aurora to the amount of $17,500 to appear for a hearing July 25th, was allowed to go to his home. Engineer Goding, one of the alleged "Q" dynamiters, gave ball before United States commissioner today, but just as in the case of Chief Bauereisen yesterday, was immediately arrested on a state warrant. This required Goding to answer in Aurora, and he was taken there immediately.

Bonfield's Echemians.

Bonfield's Bohemians.
Chicago, July 20.—Two of the three anarchists arrested for conspiring to assassinate Bonfield, Gary and Girnnell are out of fail. Chleboun and Chapek furnished the required bond of $5,000 each last evening and have been released. Hronek, the arch-conspirator, is still in confinement and will doubtless so remain. Inspector Bonfield says the case is complete with the three arrests already made. One or two others may have known of the plot, but not to an extent that they could be convicted. Any further arrests will be for the nurnose of holding witnesses. The inspector Bonfield's Bohemian convicted. Any further arrests will be for the purpose of holding witnesses. The inspector denies the report of Chleboun's confession.

The Iron Workers.

Pittsburg, July 20.—Another firm, Kirkpatrick & Co., of Leechburg, Pa., signed the amalgamated scale today, and several more signatures are expected within the next twenty-four hours. The confusion in the Western Iron association with the association of manufacturers of iron, steel and nails was cleared up by A. F. Keating, who said today: "The Western Iron association and association of iron, steel and nails are two distinct and seperate organizations. The former regulates the price of iron; the latter arranges the wages question. From the latter association twelve firms have formally withdrawn, and I suppose those who signed the scale in the first place practically did the same thing when they affixed their signatures. Yes, I have resigned. I know nothing about the iron lockout now. No one will consult me any further in the matter, as I have nothing to do with the association."

which is just about $700,000. Another sugges-tion is the total issue of Terminal preferred

NO TRUTH IN IT,

Heated Spell, The Summer Fights Now Raging in Benton -Cracked Skulls and Bloody Noses, Etc., Etc.

CLARKSVILLE, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—
The past two weeks fighting has been the order of the day at Berton, sixteen miles from this place, in Rabun county.

Last Saturday was one week ago, while Charles Grant, a lad of seventeen, was hoeing to be field on the Challele river at the place.

in his field on the Tallulah river, at the place mentioned, a man by the name of Bill Led-ford came along and demanded that Grant ald put him over the river. Grant said he would when he finished his row. That did not suit Ledford, so he came at Grant in a threat-ening manner, but he soon found himself on his head and unable to further resist.

On the following Saturday, Charles Grant was at church near Berton, he being outside remarked to Will Wilson: "Have you hired this preacher to preach?" Wilson took it up, this preacher to preach?" Wilson took it up, and about one-fourth of a mile from the church there was a desperate fight between the two, though nothing serious resulted.

On Monday morning following a Mr. Garrett, of Towns county, was at Berton, and ere long he was assaulted by Jack Smith, who fearfully beat him, but Jack got badly knifed in the row before it was over.

The fourth fight at Berton was of a more serious nature. On Saturday, 11th instant, Charles Grant was in his store and Thomas McConnell was with him being very much intoxicated. McConnell went to Grant's desk and took ont a pistol and commenced to handle it in a man-ner that caused Grant to try to take it from him. He found it impossible, owing to McConnell's superior strength. He called in a man who was near by to help. The two took hold of the pistol but when McConnell saw he would be overpowered he took out his knife and cut Smith in the abdomen in several places till it is doubtful as to his recovery. A Ship's Mate Selects His Court and & Conflict is the Result. SAVANNAH, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—There was a conflict of authority between the state and the United States today. Last night the mate of the tug Perry, from New Orleans for New York, had a fight with one of the crew. A warrant was sworn out before Magistrate Reynolds for the arrest of the mate. It was served by a United States deputy marshall served by a United States deputy marshall, acting as constable for the magistrate. The mate said he wanted to go before United States Commissioner Lamar and place himself under his protection. This he did, and the commissioner refused to give him up on the ground that the tug does not belong in Georgia. Lawyers and authorities were hunted up, but the matter will be settled amicably by arbitration.

WORTH COUNTY IMPROVING.

The Wild Lands Going Up in Value Very Rapidly.

Rapidly.

Aleany, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—Worth county has improved wonderfully within the last few years. Remarked a gentleman from that county today: "Worth and Colquit are destined at no distant day to become the garden spots of the south."

"I believe the lands in Worth have undergone some chemical change," said another gentleman who owns a farm in that fertile county. Every evidence points to that fact. A few years ago no one there thought of planting anything but cow penned land. Now they clear up new ground and raise bountiful crops.

THE QUITMAN SENSATION. The Feeling Against the Murderer Growing

Savannah, Ga., July 20.-[Special.]-The excitement at Quitman, in the Lane case, has not abated, while the interest in this city seems to increase daily. Every mail brings to Guckenheimer & Sons letters from different sections of the state, some denouncing Arring-ton's action and others merely stating that the senders did not believe that the drummer was guilty of the offense charged, and that justice demands a full investigation. One letter from a large storekeeper in Quitman, re-ceived this morning, says: "Lane was wil-fully murdered for taking a few liberties with a girl."

BOGUS MARRIAGE LICENSES. A Singular Sensation Reported from Cherokee County.

Canton, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—The Advance says that bogus marriage licenses have been playing an important part in the meanness and depravity of some of the young men of the county during the last three weeks. A couple of young men in the southern part of the county procured some sort of a paper, which they represented to two young ladies as being license, and then got "one of the boys" to pronounce the ceremony which the girls thought made them man and wife, and in this way the secondrelly young men are reported as having accomplished their desire. Again, in the northwestern part of the county, a John Wiley came to town a few months ago and procured license for himself and a young lady, and then with the license to more forcibly impress his promise of marriage he succeeded in gaining the confidence of her whom he had sworn to marry, love and protect. The marriage was fixed for last Sunday and "a big dinner" set, but when John came he excused himself and had the marriage postponed until "tomorrow," on account of having misplaced the license. The girl's parents then "smelt a mouse" and had the girl to swear out a warrant for John, who in the meantime was preparing to leave the country. The warrant was placed in Sheriff Kitchen's hand, but be fore he could get to Salacoa John had got away.

Forsyth, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—On the Goodwyne farm about two miles from town on Thursday morning, Mr. Oscar Goodwyne, a coung man about nineteen or twenty years of ge, was assaulted by a negro, Douglas Butler, erhaps about the same age. This reproof aroused the negro's impudence as well as anger and after some words had passed between them, the negro struck Mr. Goodwyne with his hoe, and felling him to his knees, and was raking his hoe to strike the second time, when Mr. Goodwyne snatched a hoe from a negro girl who was in reach of him and struck the negro on the head, felling him to the ground, and thus defended himself from what might have heen a serious, if not fatal and strick the left to the ground, and thus defended himself from what might have been a serious, if not fatal blow to him. The New Candidates for the Senate and the Albany, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—"How does our nomination for the senate suit you?" asked Supreme Court Clerk J. J. McDowell, of Worth county, yesterday. "Yes, he is a good selection," he continued. "Besides being a practical business man he is very moral and has given liberally to churches, schools and to other good causes. He has put $1,100 into the summer academy alone. Mr. W. J. Alford, the other candidate, is also a good man, and so is Dr. Pickett."

Mr. Alford will doubtless represent his dis trict in the next state senate, this being by the rotation rule Worth county's time to make the rotation rule Worth county's time to make the appointment. He is a gentleman, broad and liberal in views, with nothing of the professional politician about him, being strictly business. Mr. Alford is a native of North Carolina, and for many years has been one of Worth country's most progressive citizans. He Worth county's most progressive citizens. The prominent names, viz: Bradwell, Miller and Daniels have been in the field for several weeks. Each of them has a strong following, and it has been difficult to determine which one would secure the nomination. It has been rumored that Daniels's name has been withdrawn by his friends, and if this be true it is probable that Captain S. D. Bradwell will be the nominee of the democratic party, and this, of course, means election as senator. No-better choice could be made by our people, as he is in every way qualified to represent the district ably and satisfactorily.

Death of a Venerable Lady.

From the Covington, Ga., Enterprise,
Mrs. Sarah E. Means, an aged and honored lady, died at her home in Oxford on Saturday morning last, aged about eighty years—perhaps eighty-five years. She was the wife of the late venerable Dr. Alexander Means, and a better, kinder-hearted lady never lived or died than was she. The long years of her existence were devoted to making those around her happy. For some time past she has been in feeble health and her death was not entirely unexpected. Her life of Christian benevolence and sweet charity is as a rich legacy to those she leaves behind.

Macon, Ga., July 20 .- [Special.]-The po litical caldron which has been seething in Bibb in a quiet way for several weeks, bas to day, simmered down. Tomorrow, Saturday the primary to nominate candidates for the legislature will be held. Heretofore the candidates have been Hons. W. A. Huff, R. W. Patterson, S. C. Chambliss, C. C. Balkcom and J. E. Schofield. Mr. Balkcom has retired on account of a severe attack of illness, lasting through an important part of the campaign. The following is his card:

MR. BALCOM WITHDRAWS. MR. BALCOM WITHDRAWS.

Correnspondent Constitution: Being physically unable by reason of sickness to engage in any active canvass, I have decided to withdraw my name as a candidate for the legislature. I had hoped to be able to make the race, but the hand of sickness has been laid upon me, and in deference to the wishes of my most intimate friends who do not desire that I should attempt the race in a crippled condition, and in justice to myself, I have decided on this step.

I am deeply grateful to the many friends upon whose support I fully relied, and trusting that Bibb county will elect such representatives as will do her honom, I am very respectfully, C.C. Balcon.

Today Messrs. Schofield and Huff held a roday Messrs. Scholed and Thin head a prolonged consultation, as earnest, if less imposing, than that which William and the czar are having at Cronstadt. The result is that Mr. Schofield retires, as is shown by the following card, which appeared in today's Evening News:

To the Public: Thanking all who have interonors. Respectfully, JAMES E. SCHOFFELD.

This leaves the field to Huff, Patterson and Chambliss, and as there are three places, each man has a slice of the pie.

TOM WOOLFOLK'S TRIAL.

The Hearing of the Motion for a New Trial to Take Place Tomorrow. Macon, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—The long delayed and much talked of hearing of the motion of Tom Woolfolk's trial will be begun before Judge Gustin, of the superior court, to orrow morning.

The above report was heard on the streets today, and in order to get the truth of the matter a Constitution reporter hunted up Captain J. C. Rutherford, Woolfolk's attorney, and found him at his rooms at the Lanier, absorbed in a pile of legal papers.

"Yes, it's true. The hearing of the motion "Xes, 17's true. The hearing of the motion will begin temorrow, but we have tried to keep the matter quiet, as we do not want to have a crowd present, as it will not interest them in the least. The arguing of the motion or the trial is what they want, and they may just as well stev away towerer." just as well stay away tomorrow.

THE BABY BUDGET,

Will Make Its First Appearance on Sunday, July 29th.

Macon, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—Macon's new morning daily paper, "The Baby Budget," an account of which was published in The Constitution some time since, will appear one week later than was announced, on account of some of the outfit being delayed, but all other arrangements have been perfected, and its first sheet will be issued on next Sunday week. July 29th.

The Lanier's New Clerk.

Macon, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—Some time ago, Mr. E. A. Elder, the popular head clerk of the Hotel Lanier, was forced to leave his post and take charge of the Elder house, at Indian Springs. His place was filled by Night Clerk Arnold. who is now connected with the Planters' hotel, of Augusta.

Though these gentlemen are greatly missed, their positions are now being supplied by Messrs. Crawford and Allen, who are quite an addition to the institution. Mr. Allen is an old Atlanta boy, and has scores of friends there, while Mr. W. S. Crawford acts in the capacity of head clerk. He was recently connected with the Beckel house, of Dayton, O., but preferred being associated with his brother, who is manager of the Lanier.

United States Court Closes.

Macon, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—The May term of the United States court closed here yesterday. During this term a very large number of important cases have been disposed of. Of these perhaps that of August Bro. vs. J. T. Calloway, surviving partner, attracted most attention. Attorney Alex. Proudfit represented the plaintiff, and after several weeks' hard fighting, succeeded in winning the case. The fall term of this tribunal opens on the first Monday in October next.

Residence Burned.

Lincolnton, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—The large two-story residence of Mr. E. R. Perryman here was destroyed by fire today. The fire originated from a defective stovepipe in the diningroom. Only a portion of the furniture was saved. There was no insurance, and the loss falls quite heavy on Mr. Perryman. THE SEA CAPTAINS

Pledge Flowing Bumpers in Brunswick-A

Brunswick, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—A sumptuous banquet was given at the Oglethorpe hotel last night by the sea captains of Brunswick to the captains and officers of the visiting pilot boats which took part in the recent regatta. The presentation of the prizes was made by Hon. J. E. Dart, collector of the port, making the speech. The first prize was awarded to the Gracchi, Captain Duncan Wright, of Brunswick, which made the thirty-six miles in four hours, twenty-two mintes and twenty-four seconds. The second prize went to the Sophie Amelia K., Captain F. Kresnel, of Charleston, which performed the course in four hours, four minutes and forfy-five seconds. Mayor D. T. Dunn acted as toast-maker at the banquet, which was a brilliant success. It was enthusiastically mid unanimously voted that the encampment and regatta had been a crowning success, which every one pledged himself to do his part to repeat next year. It is estimated that 30,000 people visited St. Simons during the week of the encampment and regatta, or army and navy week, as it is called locally.

BURIAL OF JUDGE UNDERWOOD.

Judge Augustus R. Wright Preaches the Funeral Sermon.

Rome, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—The funeral of Judge J. W. H. Underwood occurred today. The services were held at the Baptist, instead of at the Episcopal church, of which the judge was a member, so as to better accommodate the large congregation. The spacious church was crowded. Many business houses were closed while the services were in progress. Dr. W. D. Powers, of Macon, read the burial service of the Episcopal church. Professor Samuel P. Snow sang "When," a poem by Father Ryan, which he had set to music. Professor Bidez presided at the organ, and the Dilletanti club sang "Still, Still With Thee."

The funeral sermon was preached by Judge Augustus R. Wright, this having been Judge Underwood's wish expressed before his death. The sermon was, perhaps, the most eloquent

The sermon was, perhaps, the most eloquent The sermon was, pernaps, the most enoquent funeral oration ever pronounced in Rome. In words of tender pathos and splendid cloquence, the speaker eulogized the distinguished dead. He paid a glowing tribute to Judge Underwood's public services and social virtues. As the venerable speaker closed his magnificent oration, in a burst of tender eloquence, the vast audience was moved to tears and the vast audience was moved to tears, and the speaker's words found an echo in every heart. Dr. Goetchins pronounced the benediction, after which the remains, followed by an imposing cortege, were taken to Myrtle Hill cemetery and all that was mortal of one of Georgia's most distinguished sons was considered to the town. signed to the tomb.

EMERSON'S GROWTH.

Another Evidence of Bartow's Progress.

Northern Capital Developing Southern Rescurces-The Path of Progress in Bartow County.

EMERSON, Ga., July 20 .- [Special.]-Only a few months ago the citizens of this settlement were startled with the announcement that Colonel C. M. Jones, one of the farmers of this community, had succeeded in inducing several "northern yankees" to assist in start ing a new town at the station on the Western and Atlantic railroad, then known as Stegalls and that they further proposed to make it a manufacturing town, where the raw material of the almost numberless variety of minerals at that point may be manufactured into articles of use instead of shipping, as now, in its natural state. Many were the queries of the people as to the success of the undertaking, the mines of the old Bartow works, only one half mile distant, the close proximity to the county seat, were all suggested as obstacles in the way, but to the great surprise of many, and especially the ever present Mr. Doubter and Mr. Croaker, the statement began to take the form of business by the organization of the Emerso business by the organization of the Emersus Land company, who proceeded forthwith to purchase several hundred acres of land from Uncle Emsly Stegall and his son, J. P. Stegall, and Colonel Jones, lying contiguous to and upon both sides of the railroad, and, by the indomitable energy and perseverence of the general manager of the company, Mr. G. W. W. Barber, formerly of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, they have had a large portion of their purchase platted into blocks and lots, and a large hotel building nearly completed, being three-stories with mansard roof, the architecture of which makes it a fine imposing building, which in appearance will be second to none on the Western and Atlantic railroad. This hotel will be ready to accommodate the traveling public and permanent boarders by the first of September. This enterprise was an absolute necessity before they could invite people to Emerson to investigate these resources, and to embark in any form of manufactory, the locality being nothing but a farming community, ity being nothing but a farming community, and, therefore no means at hand for accommo-

-CARRIAGES FURNISHED FOR-Weddings, Balls, Theaters and Funerals. THE SUPREME COURT.

Decisions Rendered July 20th, 1888.

Reported for The Constitution by Henry C. Peeples. Supreme Court Reporter.

Trice, administratrix, vs. Rose. Equity, from Baldwin. Practice. Charge of court. Verdict. Judgments. Bona fide purchaser. Estoppel. Before Judge Jenkins.

This case was argued at the last term, and the decision reversed.

Simmons, J.—1. Before an objection to testimony can be considered, it must appear that the objection was made in the court below, and also what the ground of objection was.

2. The charge of the court not being sent up in the record, nor excepted to save in one particular, it will be presumed in all other particulars to have been legal and to have fully covered the questions in the case.

3. Questions of good faith and fraud are peculiarly within the province of the jury. They are made, by law, the sole judges of such questions; and after two or more concurrent verdicts in a case turning upon such questions, the evidence will be taken most strongly in favor of the prevailing party.

4. If one purchase before a judgment against his vender has been obtained, if the purchase be bona fide and for value, and the purchase continue in open and notorious possession of the land for four years after judgment is ob-be bona fide and for value, and the purchaser continue in open and notorious possession of the land for four years after judgment is obtained, during which time no attempt is made by the judgment creditor to enforce execution against the land; such purchaser will be protected, under $3583 of the code, although he took no deed at the time of the purchase, nor had obtained a deed up to the time of the levy of the execution.

had obtained a deed up to the time of the levy of the execution.

(a) The protection afforded by the section of the code cited does not depend upon the purchasers having a paper title, but upon the bona fides of the purchase, the payment of a valuable consideration and possession for four years after judgment. James vs. Patterson, 62 Ga. 527.

62 Ga. 527.

5. It not appearing that the question of estoppel was made in the court below, it will not be considered here. Jones vs. Grantham, present term.

Blackman vs. State. Murder, from Schley. Criminal law. Venue. Jury. Challenge. Evidence. Practice. Charge of court. Verdict. Before Judge Fort.

Bleckley, C. J.—1. The power of the legislature to say how the judge of the superior court should satisfy himself as to whether an impartial jury can be obtained in the county, whon a motion for change of venue is made, is distinctly recognized by the constitution of 1877. Code, §5172, 5173. It had been exercised before the constitution was made, and the law then motion for change of venue is made, is distinctly recognized by the constitution of 1877. Code, $5172, 5173. It had been exercised before the constitution was made, and the law then in force on the subject (acts 1871, 1874, code, $4687) has continued in force ever since. The test prescribed by that law was properly recognized and applied by the court in this case. Brinkley vs. State, 54th Ga., 371; constitution, 1868, article V, section XII, par. II.

(a) Under the express terms of the constitution of 1877, the legislature can change the mode of determing such a motion; but until they do so, that which has been ordained should be observed.

2. A challenge confined to four jurors is not bread enough to vitiate the array, even though otherwise good. Eberhart vs. State, 47th Ga., 646; code, $4680. But that jurors, at some previous trial of the prisoner under the same indictment, have been put upon him and one or more of them rejected by him, does not disqualify them, and is not good even as challenge to the poll. Reid vs. State, 50th Ga., 556.

3. Where declarations imputed to a juror are dented by him, and his denial is controverted by the evidence of only one witness, it is not error to overrule a ground of the motion for a new trial based upon such declarations.

4. Where the answers of a juror on the voir dire imported that he had no fixed opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, his mere casual declaration, made before that time, that he believed him guilty because two juries had found him guilty, is altogether reconcilable with such an import of his answers; and such a declaration is not sufficient to justify the setting asside of a verdict found by a jury of whom he was one.

(a) A juror is not qualified by a loose and vague opinion as to guilt or innocence, unless it has been generated by seeing the crime committed or hearing the evidence on oath. Westmoreland vs. state, 45 Ga. 225; Fogarty vs. state, present term, (5 S. E. Rep. 782.)

(b.) Doyal vs. state, 73 Ga. 72, and Brinkley vs. state, 58

the opinions of witnesses founded on such compulsive tracks were not also withdrawn from them, is not supported by the facts. If a witness has already formed an opinion upon a set of premises, it does not render such opinion less reliable or less admissible in evidence that other premises not proper for consideration were afterwards superadded. It was for the jury to judge how much the opinion was weakened by withdrawing from it the support of excluded premises.

6. When evidence is received subject to be ruled out unless something else is proved, the failure to rule it out simply means that, in the opinion of the court, the requisite supplemenfailure to rule it out simply means that, in the opinion of the court, the requisite supplemental evidence has been forthcoming; and such supplemental evidence appears to have been adduced in support of the testimony which, in this case, had been admitted subject to future ruling of the court.

7. Opening of the case after the argument began for the reception of a court paper in evidence, was in the discretion of the court. That discretion does not appear to have been abused.

8. The court should not have charged the jury as to that part of $4323 of the code which invests the court with discretionary power to substitute imprisonment for life for the death penalty in cases of conviction on circumstantial evidence; but this impropriety is not cause not granting a new trial. Blackman vs. State March term, 1887.

March term, 1887.

9. It was not error, when certain testimony was offered and objected to, for the court to state his understanding for the object for which it was offered and of its relation to hear 3ay.

10. The charge as a whole was not erroneous.

Though the verdict is based on circumstantial evidence, and though sentence of death has been pronounced, these are not reasons for granting a new trial.

11. There was sufficient evidence to justify the verdict of the jury, and all the responsibility for their finding on the facts of the case rests upon them. Moughon vs. State, 59 Ga., 309-10.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 21, 1888

The Campaign Leader. The selection of Mr. Calvin S. Brice, to head the democratic national committee, and to take active charge of the democratic campaign, will doubtless prove to be a satisfactory one. So far as we know, Mr Brice has no reputation as a mere politician, but this fact will not at all interfere with his usefulness. He is a good business man, cool and level-headed, with a thorough understanding of the situation, and a desire to justify the confidence the leaders of the party have placed in him.

He will doubtless inject fresh methods and new maneuvers into the campaign, and, in that case, his programme will be a welcome change from the old routine. In addition, Mr. Brice will have the advice and the aid of every lively democrat to be found in the land. It has already been charged by some of the republican organs, that Mr. Brice was selected to take charge of the democratic campaign because he is able at any moment to place himself in communication with a barrel of money.

We are not disposed to belittle this phase of the matter. The republican party has been the barrel party for many years, and it 1s not likely that it will suffer for funds during the present campaign, though it will not have an opportunity to squeeze the federal office-holders. We feel, therefore, that Mr. Brice is quite an accomplished campaigner, if he is able to place his hands on the proper amount of money whenever he needs it.

As a matter of fact, it is an accomplishment not to be sneezed at. It is said that quite a large number of republican voters are to be for sale this year, and if the democrats desire to add anything to their majority, they will need funds for that purpose. If Mr. Brice, as the republican organs declare, has a barrel, we trust he will employ it judiclously in an effort to forward the glorious cause of true democracy.

THE Chicago Inter-Ocean calls attention to the fact that Mr. Mills, in the early discussion of his bill, remarked that "a tax on marble is a tax on decent burial of the dead." At the same time, it should be remembered that Mr. Mills has reformed. He is now convinced that marble should be covered by a protective tax. He has thus opened up a green vista through which democrats may journey in brotherly love.

Let Business Begin.

With the organization of the national democratic committee, it is to be hoped that the campaign will be begun in earnest. There is no reason for any further delay. It is true that no time has been lost, but the democrats can afford to lose none. The party has a very tough campaign before it, and, if it is successful, it will have to do a great deal of missionary work.

This year the issue most prominent in the campaign is comparatively a new one to this generation, and the democrats, in order to successful in states where success is absolutely essential to the control of the government, will be compelled to face some very obstinate conditions.

This fact is understood by the democratic leaders, but it cannot be understood too to bring out another very soon. The spirit that "the democratic party is certain to lose a considerable number of votes on the issue which it has honestly and courageously forced to the front. It must gain an equal or greater number of votes from the republicans in order to win." This is where the missionary work must come in, and to this object the democrats must address them-

It may be taken for granted that all the sentimental issues will go for nothing. The republicans will have no time to revive the spirit of sectionalism, and the democrats will have no occasion to defend or explain the southern situation. The campaign is to be fought out on a purely business issue and both parties will have to depend on argument rather than abuse or personalities.

It is about to be conceded in the neighborhood of Chicago that Editor Medill knows a great deal more about alfalfa as a forage crop than he does about reducing the price of a newspaper; but he is rapidly learning something about the latter.

Two Ghost Stories.

The New York Press, one of the ironclad organs of the republican party, has the fol-lowing under the head of "Democratic Ghost Stories:"

The Press is assured upon undoubted authority that Oliver Cromwell is dead. He died about two hundred years ago, but for a few days it seemed as if his ghost would play a consplcuous part in the campaign. The democratic story ran that an ances-tor of General Harrison was a soldier in Cromwell's army, and because Cromwell had been cruel in his Irish campaigns, upon the theory of vicarious atonement General Harrison ought to be punished for the sins of Cromwell. Even the ghost has now disappeared from the scene, since it is certain that appeared from the scene, since it is certain that ancestor of Harrison ever served in Cromwell's army. This incident, however, serves to illustrate the sort of "argument" upon which the democratic party has fed the Irish-American during the life-time of two generations.

that it is inclined to exaggerate, and in its spasmodic endeavors to defend the republican nominee is trying to ward off a charge which exists only in its imagination. No democratic paper in the country has resorted to such argument as a reason why Harrison should not be elected. In giving a sketch of the republican nominee the simple statement as above was probably made and was published in both democratic and republican papers, as a matter of interest. Whether true or not, it should in a man silly enough to be influenced by such demns itself, for of all papers it has made quired. It has generally been the custom more fuss than any about "The Campaign 1840," "General Harrison's Grandfather," "History Repeating Itself," etc.

THE CONSTITUTION is assured upon equally as well founded authority as the Press, that William Henry Harrison is dead. The grandfather of his grandson died some forty-four years ago, but it seems today "as if his ghost would play a conspicuous part in the campaign." Every republican organ in the United States is writing itself wild about this celebrated republican ghost, and is doing everything possible to inject into it some evidence of animation for the purpose of helping out Grandson Benjamin.

What has all this to do with the issue of the day? There is no more reason why General Harrison should be stronger because he is the grandson of his grandfather than that he should be weaker because a more remote ancestor was a soldier in Cromwell's

Our esteemed republican contemporaries, however, can be pardoned for robbing the grave for campaign thunder, for if they depended on living issues, and on the political vitality of their nominee, they would be reduced to a state of political destitution. So bang away! Old Tippecanoe is dead, and he is not responsible for the hands into which his name has fallen, and for the use to which it is being put.

Some of the organs are hereby reminded that the republican party never marched through Georgia to any great extent.

Halstead and the Issue. We observe that Field Marshal Murat

Halstead is shedding some of his ferocity. He now contemplates with something like a foreordained smile the spectacle of the confederacy in the saddle. It is a sad smile, to be sure, but a sad smile is better than frowns and groans and tears.

The condition of Editor Halstead's mind is indeed hopeful. He has been on the ragged edge for a long while. He has viewed with alarm the growth and development of the democratic party-a party that has its root in the south, its branches spreading northward, eastward and westward; he has seen the confederate brigadiers take their places in congress and legislate for the whole country: he has seen the south and the north shake hands over the graves of the blue and the gray, and the sight ha made him miserable. He has fought against the inevitable and kicked at the develop ment of righteous reforms until his spiri is sick and his body sore; and now, after all, he is compelled to make the campaign on other and different issues.

The result is that he is in a pitiable plight. He knows all about the southern situation, and, with the assistance of Major General S. R. Reed, Deacon Smith and Professor Plympton, is able to devote whole columns to the impact of the southern traitor on the sensibilities of the northern loyalist; but when it comes to the tariff issue, he is not there at all.

The result is that in the place of his able editorials we have a collection of spasmodic paragraphs about the democratic party and free trade. It is not too much to say that these paragraphs lack spice. They also lack breadth and variety, and our conclusion is that if Editor Halstead proposes to is party he will have to stop chirping like a cricket on the hearth, and go to bellowing like a bull of Bashan.

The fight is on, and Halstead will have to meet it squarely.

WE trust that the democratic leaders have their glittering eyes on West Virginia. It will be a very important state in the roundup next November.

A New Ticket.

We already have nine regularly nominated tickets in the field for president and vicepresident of the United States for the coming election. There is a movement on foot coming week in Chicago. Mr. H. B. Ploubrook, one of the conductors of a society called "The Church of Nature," is to be the candidate for president. In an interview with a co-laborer named Dean, just printed, it is asserted that the new party notion will rely on Moses. They claim that Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas have already indorsed the movement, and that they expect the earnest support of Isaiah and

All this goes to show one thing, namely that our country is full of cranks, and that they are ready to go to any extreme, it makes no difference how ridiculous, to gain a little notoriety. We need more statesmen in this country, and fewer time-servers. Practical statesmanship is dwindling into insignificance, and our politicians are more interested in selfish matters than they are in the good of the country.

THE Iowa people are not permitted to drink ginger ale. It is not to be denied that ginger ale is rank in the mouth and hot in

The Vice-Presidential Nominees.

Aside from the fact that the head of the democratic ticket is incomparably a stronger man in every way than that of the republicans, there is another thing which should be taken into consideration by the people. Suppose that the president-elect does not live to fill out his term of office; which would the country be better satisfied with as his successor, Allen G. Thurman or Levi P. Morton?

The name of the former is written on almost every page of the country's history for the last thirty years; the latter would not be known were it not for his pocketbook. me of two generations.

The Press is right about this, but we fear He is a good, clever gentleman, but the people of this country would revolt at the idea of Morton becoming president. President Cleveland enjoys a great advantage over General Harrison in his robust physique and good health. The fatigue of but a few weeks has seriously troubled the republican nominee; and if he succumbs under the strain of a three week's canvass, how could he be expected to stand the hard work of a presidential administration? Of course it is out of range of probability, that either President Cleveland or General no wise effect the republican nominee, and | Harrison will not live four years more, but the same thing might have been said of Garfield, argument should not be entitled to the right and of other presidents who took the office in comparatively sound health, and did Now, for a republican ghost story serving | not live to complete their term. It is certo illustrate the sort of "argument" upon | tainly a matter worthy of consideration, and which the republican party is feeding the in the past our people have not paid that public, and it will be observed that in the attention to the choice of their vice-presiabove comment the Press indirectly con- dent which the importance of the office reof both parties, in their national conventions, to devote their attention to making a strong choice for the first place, and the vice-presidential nominees have, in most instances, been selected on the impulse of the moment, and without any thought as to the nominee being a suitable person to fill the office of president, should circumstances require it.

The republican convention would never have selected Morton for the first place, and in deciding on him for the second position, it simply made a bid for the use of his barrel for campaign purposes. It is different with the democrats; Mr. Thurman is a man in every way capable of assuming the dignity of president and exercising the duties ffice with honor to himself and credit to his country. He is a national man in every sense of the word, and as such would be entitled to the respect and confidence of the people, should fate call him to the presi-

We sincerely trust that neither Presdent Cleveland nor General Harrison will be taken away until they have completed the quota of years which might reasonably be expected for both. Yet there is no guarantee that either of them will do so. It is certainly not out of place to consider what may occur, for what has happened in the past may happen in the future.

"THERE ARE SOME reasons for thinking that Tennessee may be carried by the republicans," says the Philadelphia Press. Yes, and there are some reasons for thinking that the moon is made of green cheese, but it is not probable.

A NUMBER of our republican exchanges, in opes of strengthening their ticket as much as possible, are publishing portraits of Mrs. Har-rison and the little baby grandson alongside that of the republican nominee. Poor little baby! He can't point back forty years hence to his grandfather as an inducement for po-litical recognition. The people will shake their heads and say, "The Chinese must go!" MR. BLAINE will sail for America on August 1st, and, it is said, will take an active part in the campaign. This remains to be demonstrated, however. ICELANDIC IMMIGRATION TO Winnepeg has assumed considerable proportions of late. Over five hundred Icelanders have arrived in the last few months. Manitoba seems to be get-ting nearly all of the immigrants from the rigid little island, in which a condition of affairs unprecedent in this century prevails. The inhabitants in the north of Icels on the verge of starvation," says Mr. Bal-winson, who is engineering the immigration movement. The island has been surrounded by polar ice all the spring, and merchant ships have been unable to land provisions, conse quently the people have to depend on local resources, which, at best, are very scant. On June 5 every harbor on the coast, except three on the west, was blockaded by ice. A condition of affairs unprecedented in the century prevails. Mr. Baldwinson says that one farmr who desired to sell his farm and emigrate to Manitoba offered to sell his property at auc tlon and the highest bid made was three shil-

No more than 400 of the volunteers are to be enlisted from any one congressional district, and recruits are required to be between the ages of sixteen and forty file years By the bill the president may call into active service at any time such part of the national guard as may be needed to enforce the execution of the laws, suppress riots or insurrections, repel foreign invasions or garrison the fortifications of the country. A LONG GASH.

Two Negroes Fight Yesterday at the New Orphans' Home. Orphans' Home.

Two negroes had a fight yesterday at the Jewish Orphans' home, on Washington street, and one of them was badly carved up.

The man that was cut is Gus Hamilton, a laborer, living on Mangum street, near Rhodes. The carver's name is Ruben Mays.

It seems that both men have been working on the-new orphans' home. Mays did not go to work until about twelve o'clock, and when he did go out he found Hamilton at work with the wheelbarrow that he (Mays) had been using.

'That's my wheelbarrow." said Mays. "Well, you can't get it." said Hamilton.
One word led to another, and finally Mays picked up a brickbat and threw it at Hamilmost to the handle a little in the rear of the left shoulder, he cut down across the left arm almost to the wrist, and cut to the bone. He then stuck the blade into Hamilton's arm just below the elbow, where the sleeve had been rolled up leaving the arm bare, and literally cut out a piece almost as large as a hen's egg. Mays then ran off and has not been seen since.

Hamilton was carried as quickly as possible to the nearest drug store on Capitol avenue, and the arm sewed up. It was feared for a while that the darky would bleed to death. As soon as he could be moved he was carried to his home on Mangum street.

At last accounts Mays was still at large. He is a bad darky, and is now under bond for cutting another negro sometime ago.

Several Moonshiners Captured in Rabun County.

An important seizure was made the day be-fore yesterday in the county of Rabun, just forty-five miles from Tallulah Falls. Revenue Agent Chapman, assisted by Dep-ute Maund, Ware, Strong and Godfrey, did the work.

the work.

In a deep ravine in a lonely and picturesque fastness of the wild mountain country they ran upon a large copper still which was being worked by four moonshiners.

They captured without much trouble J. D. Henry, Grant Burrell, George Booth and a man who gave his name as Bill Hicks, but who proved to be Bob Crane.

The revenue men destroyed the still, together with eighteen stands, two thousand gallons of beer and sixteen bushels of meal.

On the way to Gainesville Crane botted from the officers and made his escape.

The other prisoners were taken before Commissioner Gaston, at Gainesville, who committed them to Fulton county jail, where they were safely lodged yesterday in default of bond.

Deputy McClaine agreeted Lewis Shedwick bond.

Deputy McClaine arrested Lewis Shadrick, in Pickens county, for violating the revenue law. Commissioner Carter, of Dalton, committed him to Fulton jail.

Commissioner Bledsoe committed Thomas Foster to Fulton jail. He was arrested by Deputy Wilton in Fannin county.

SHOT HIM DEAD.

A Tragedy in Savannah Last Night.

End of a Young Man Who Insults a Married Unan-Her Husband Hunts Him Up and Kills Him.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 20 .- [Special.] - Frank B. Rustin was killed tonight by W. T. Smith. Smith killed Rustin on the corner of Belton and West Broad streets, a little before 8 o'elock. He used a self-cocking five-shooter. Rustip was in his buggy. Smith shot him five times, all the balls penetrating his head in nearly the same spot. Your correspondent visited Smith tonight in the barracks. The prisoner talked freely. He said: "It's a bad predicament to be in, but if murder is ever justifiable, this one is. I had to defend my home. I have known Rustin a ong time. We both came from Tatnall county. I came to Savannah and married in January, 1881, Miss Sallie Dukes. For ten months this scoundrel Rustin has followed and persecuted my wife. For a long time she kept it from me, fearing the result. Ten months ago, my wife went to visit her mother at 111 Central railroad. Rustin was also on a visit to the same place. In her mother's parlor, Rustin improperly addressed my wife. He held her on the lounge, and used familiarities which were resented. He promised to desist from his attentions if she would say nothing. On her return to Savannah, he continued to seek her society, much to her distress. Finally I became aware of them. I warned Rustin to keep away from my home, or I would have to kill him. He promised to do so. He said h would go into the country, but he kept up his conduct until a few days ago. Today he renewed his insulting addresses. My wife intended to visit Tybee at three o'clock in the morning. She tock the Broughton street car, and arranged plans with a young lady. Rustin followed her, my wife, when returning rode, first to the terminus of the road at Belton street, Rustin followed her, and accested her. When surrounded by a number of people he begged her to quit me and run away with him. When I returned home to dinner, I found my wife in distress and sick. She is a poor, weak woman, and I don't see how a man could persecute her as Rustin did: Finally, she told me what had happened. I left her and went to my work. I keep Lovett's warehouse, on State street. Rustin is with his father, the furniture dealer. I knocked off early. I went home at 4 o'clock. My wife was still in a pitiable state. I cannot describe my feelings. I sat for three hours in terrible excitement and distress. I got my pistol. I bought it some three weeks since, thinking I would have to kill Rustin. I went to the store. He wasn't there, and I hurried out to his house. He lives on Anderson street. I reside on Hull near Jefferson. I saw Rustin at the corner of Bolton and West Broad in his buggy talking. I went over, drew my pistol, put it to his head and fired. I fired the second time. He fell, and I put three more bullets in his head. The man he was with I asked to go with me to the barracks. He said he was a cousin to the dead man. I reloaded my pistol. I had a round of cartridges with me. I then surrendered to Policeman Michael. If I'm discharged, as I expect to be, I will still be in a bad predicament. I don't think a man can commit murder and be happy. My wife has given me epistles from Rustin, asking her to meet him. and begging her to love him." [Smith is a good looking man, thirty-one years old. He added that he never touched liquor in any shape, and hated men who did. He bore with Rustin, he said, because he said it might be whisky in this strange fascination. BUSINESS OUTLOOK. Good Crop Reports Give a Hopeful Feeling to the Trade. NEW YORK, July 20.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s New York, July 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade for the week, says:

Crop prospects, which are the basis of existing hopefulness in business, continue good. Reports from the spring wheat regions are favorable, especially from St. Paul and Milwaukee and the increase in yield promises to compensate for a good part, of injury to winter wheat. The harvesting of winter wheat, so far, indicates results fully equal to late and better for shadowing of the agricultural bureau. Kansas City especially, reports an excellent yield, and the state estimate for Michigan is 15,900.000 bushels, a decrease not greater than the annual review indicated. Corn reports from all quarters are encouraging, and the yield of oats promises to be very large, though injury from rain is reported in Texas. The same cause operates to balance the increase in the acreage of cotton m that state; but the prospect in the Mississippi valley is still fairly satisfactory. On the whole, the prospects favor a large agricultural yield, though important crops are not yet beyond danger. The manulacturing outlook is a little better, though the prevailing spirit is still one of uncertainty and waiting. The great strike at Pittsburg has been practically terminated and the demand for iron, there is better, without a change in price, but it is not yet clear whether the cost of production can be readily adjusted to the statke of the market. The termination of the strike weakens bar iron at the east and southern markets. No. I pig is largely offered at $17.50. Rails are unchanged, but official statement shows sales by all the mills for the first half of 1888 of 934,957 tons against 1,665.655 last year. The coal business is more active and schedule prices are realized. Copper production for the half year is put at 49,850,000 pounds, but the visible supply abroad, now 77,000 tons, has increased 4,000 tons in June.

Lead is weaker. The demand for cotton goods be-ing irregular. Wood does not improve. The actual weekly review of trade for the week, says:

gain over last year of $,000.000 pounds, but the visible supply abroad, now 77,000 tons, has increased 4,000 tons in June.

Lead is weaker. The demand for cotton goods being irregular. Wool does not improve. The actual trade in progress, though a little smaller than a year ago, must be considered large for the season. Clearings at all points still show some increase, but for the last week only 4% per cent in the aggregate and 2 per cent outside of New York, compared with a year ago, when the transactions were very large for the season. A general improvement is noted at 8t. Paul and in manufactories at Pittsburg, since the strike virtually ended; in real estate at Omaha, where 51,500 per front foot is paid in eash for sites for immediate improvement; and in the lumber and iron business at Detroit, though flour milling there is depressed. Kanesa City business men complain that discrimination in freight may take many millions in trade from that point, but are working for its correction. The strike in the Lake Eric Iron company at Cleveland is expected to be settled soon. Business appears dull at most points, however, congressional uncertainties affecting many branches of trade, while in others material reaction from the exceptional activity is felt.

The transportation business is not in good shape. Reported earnings but slightly exceed those of a year ago on roads which report earlier, and have considerable increase of mileage, and meanwhile operating expenses seem to have increased generally more than earnings.

Stock were decidedly strong for some days, but with large realizing have grown dull and weak again, though still averaging about $1.50 per share alove prices of a week ago. Nearly all branches of business are, to some extent, disturbed by transportation troubles and the negotiation of securities for new roads is not rendered easy.

Money is everywhere in abundant supply for legit-imate business, and yet complaints of alow collections grow more frequent again, especially in the region about Kansas City, G ed, foreign extenange being below the snipping point.

Exports of merchandise for iwo weeks from New York have been 26 per cent below last year's, which were exceptionally large, and imports still show a slight increase. The supply of money is so large, however, that the failure of the treasury to purchase any bouds of late excites no notice.

Business failures occuring throughout the country during last week number for the United States 214, Canada 14, total 228, against 240 last week.

"There are fifty-two of them in all," said a driver yesterday. "Some of them old, but many new. All the boys are studying them. One new rule is to the effect that dogs are not allowed on the car; another states that the driver mast induce passengers to get on and off at the rear platform; another is to to the effect that, if a passenger does not deposit his or her farg within a block after getting on the ear, the alarm bell must be rung. These are changes from the old rules. All the rules tend toward better discipline and facilitating travel."

They are Both Popular.

Two people, well known in Atlanta, registered at the Kimball yesterday. The first was Judge Howell C. Glenn, now of New York; the second was Yellowstone Kit, he of blessed memory.

Both are very popular in Atlanta, but with different elements. During his long residence in Atlanta, Howell Glenn made friends almost without number of the property of the ber-nothing but the city directory could con heir names. The Efforts to Get Him to Return Atlanta.

C. C. Nelson is in Canada. This will not be a very cheering or startling siece of news, but it has the reputation of being true, and as THE CONSTITUTION aims to be correct in all things, it takes this opportunity of adding to its reputation in that line.

It is also learned that Mr. Nelson has no desire or intention of returning to Atlanta.

This will cause general regret, not among Mr. Nelson's friends—for he has but few in Atlanta, just at present—but those who knew and trusted him will feel slighted at his disregard of their wishes.

Mr. Nelson is not among strangers, however the line be a lengthy one, he will find many congenial spirits, who were once like himself, and had a bank and all the honor that usually attaches to a business of this kind, when properly conducted.

And Canada is the home of Mr. Nelson's boyhood days; days when he probably did not dream of worthless exchange and loan offices and flying trips and all the other accomplishments of a swindler's career. It is possible that he desires to remain in Canada on accomplishments of the state that he desires to remain in Canada on acthat he desires to remain in Canada on ac-count of the pleasant memories that cluster around the days of his innocence and youth. Chief Connolly had been waiting for information from Mr. Jacob Haas or Adolph Brandt, and was intending to start for Canada as soon as he could hear from either of these gentlemen, provided they thought it possible to bring Nelson back. He replied to the telegram from the chief of police at Trenton, giving him the information asked for and stating that he was waiting to hear something definite before starting the service of the

In the absence of any news from either Mr. Haas or Mr. Brandt Chief Connolly did not consider it necessary to start for Canada, though he had made all arrangements to take the trip if his services were needed.

A GRAND REUNION.

Monroe the Scene of a Notable Gathering.

Bennion of the Forty-Second Georgia-Speeches by Colonel Thomas, Ex-Governor McDaniel and Others.

It was a grand day for Monroe. The occasion was the reunion of the veterans of the Forty-second Georgia, and may be pronounced as one of the happiest events that has ever taken place in Georgia. Early in the day the crowd began to assem-ble, and steadily increased until it numbered which were very fine. The Exercises of the Day. Colonel L. P. Thomas, president of the ass clation, presided in a happy manner. He in troduced the different speakers, his remark always being appropriate and to the point.

"Ladies, Fellow Citizens of Walton and Members of the Forty-second Georgia Veter ans Association: I greet you with the warn est expressions of gratitude," he began, in opening the exercises. "I am not on the programme to speak, but as the president of this association, it is expected of me to introduce the orators of the day. Did I say introduce? I should have said announce. Who does not know our late fellow-citizen and governor, whom we all learned to love so well? It well be useless for me to speak in praise of him. As our governor he was just and kind, and the people of this commonwealth honor him from the mountains to the seaboard as patrict, statesman, scholar and friend. Ex-Governor Henry D. McDaniel will now deliver the welcome address." est expressions of gratitude," he began, statesman, scholar and friend: Ex-Governor Henry D. McDaniel will now deliver the welcome address."

Mr. President and Sturivors of the Forty-Second Georgia Regiment: The occasion of this assemblage reminds us of events no true Georgian can ever forget. Not to revive the passions and prejudieses that led to the war between the states; not to keep alive sectional hatred. The questions in issue have been decided by the sword—with us the settlement is final. Our only concern is to maintain self-respect to preserve the truth of history, in order to vindicate our motives and conduct in the judgment of posterity. The 4th day of March, 1862, saw the streets of Monroe throng d with the patriotic citizens of the county. Fort Doneson and Fort Henry in the west had fallen, and Albert Sidney Johnston was retreating toward Shifoh, soon to be immortalized by his genius, and consecrated by his death. This consummate leader was gathering and fashioning the army, whose later deeds shed unfading lustre upon confederate Trans. The reaction from earlier victories followed by recent reverses, cast a gloom over the south, but did not repress the ardor of her people.

The governor of Georgia called for many regiments of volunteers—for two companies from Waiton. Four companies had already gone from the county to the army of northern Virginta—Hillyer's in the 9th, Nunnally's in the 1th, McRae's in the 18th, and Barrett's in the 3th Georgia regiments. More than one hundred recruits had joined the first two of these commands. Gran't cavalry company was being organized for western service. The remaining youth did not daily in the cause upon which the state had staked the lives and fortunes of her ditizens. On that 4th day of March, the two companies called for were enrolled, under McCollum and Mitchell, and were soon mustered into service in the 42d Georgia regiment, whose reunion we have traced in the heroto endeavors of the western service in the 42d Georgia regiment, whose reunion we have traced in the heroto endeavors of the western s and men; how Malcom fell at Chicasaw bayou; how Henderson and Huisey and Calhoun were wounded at Resaca; how imperishable renown was you in the battle of 22d July, 1264, near Atlanta in one of the most brilliant charges of the war, led by Colonel Thomas, your honored president, then senior captain. In tribute to such a record, the survivors of that gallant band, after the lapse of a quartor of a century, are greeted with the welcome now beaming in the faces and moistening the cycs of this vast multitude. Here are veterans who followed Lee and maintained the honor of Georgia in the glorious campaigns of the Army of Northern Virginia; here are veterans of the cavalry who went from Walton to share your dangers and hardships and renown in the west; here are veterans of more advanced age and later service, who left the country under Walker and Selman and Pendegrass and Hardman and Saffold to aid in rebelling the invader and to drive him from the state; here are fathers and mothers who sent sons to the front never to return; here are men and women, youths and misclens, who have heard of your knightly dead, of McCollum, of Young and Williams and Weaver and Wylle and Mayfield and others, and whose eyes kindle at the mention of Vicksburg, Resacs New Hope, Atlanta, Franklin—all these welcome you and rejoice in the privilege of sharing your reunion.

Nor do we think only of the march and bivouse and candon to the privilege of sharing your reunion.

New Hope, Atlanta, welcome you and rejoice in the privilege or you reunion. Nor do we think only of the march and bivoy hattle, of the courage and endurance where the state of the courage and endurance where the page of th your reunion.

Nor do we think only of the march and bivouse and battle, of the courage and endurance which kept you true to the flag you followed, of the renown you have won for the state on the page of history. The time will never come when we case to glory in these as priceless contributions to the fame of our common country. But veterans of the confederate armies have a prouder title, if that were possible, to the gratitude and admiration of posterity. When the flag of the union floated again over all the states, and the soldiers of opposing armies, with mutual respect and pride in American valor, parted in peace, the victors returning to boufires, and feastings and honors and power, the vanquished to ruined hones and poverty and toil; when partisan hate offered prescription instead of reconciliation, and sought to degrade states into provinces, Georgians first roused themselves to the danger, and maintained their rights under the constitution. No people of any age have been confronted with evils of such magnitude—none have overcome them in a nobler spirit of forbearance and loyalty to the pladge of their leaders and the price lies of their fathers. They ten themselves to the danger, and maintained their rights under the constitution. No people of any age have been confronted with evils of such mage the confronted with evils of such mage the confronted with evils of such and the principles of their fathers. They lent the energies, which in warfare had astonished the civilized world, to the task of regaining control of the state government. They rebuilt the social fabric, restored material prosperity, and secured to very citizen of whatever race or color all the right to which he is entitled. Americans point with two which he is entitled. Americans point with pride to many periods in the history of our common country. As this period recedes in our annuls, southern character in octeat will shine with a lustre like that which rendered southern valor the admiration of mankind. In this mighty achievement, the confederate soldier was foremost. The counties in Georgia which sent the 42d Georgia to the field DeKalb. Fulton, Gwin-ett, Milton, Newton and Walton—have led the van of southern-progress and development.

Wherever men have been needed, in this grand work, in the farm or the shop, in the office or the marts of trade, in legislative hells or in the courts, in city, town or country, veterans of the 42d Georgia have been conspicuous.

The people of Walton welcome you today as well as for your virtues in peace, as for your valor and devotion in wer. And these veterans of otherarmies view your reunion with deepest synapathy. They know how joyful would be such a gathering of their surviving comrades, scattered in distant parts of the state. As you clasp hands with comracles who may have shared with you a crust or a canteen on the march, or a blanket in the bivounc, or who may have shared with you a crust or a canteen on the march, or a blanket in the bivounc, or who may have shared with you a crust or a canteen on the march, or a blanket duty to present a gentleman who is known almost as well as your esteemed citizen, ex-Governor McDaniel. While he may not be known as well to your people, yet the citizens of the gate city know him well, and have honored him with the highest position in their gift, as he was once mayor of our city. Indeed, I can say he has never asked anything at the hands of our people that he did not get. He is now the respected ordinary of Fulton county, and the president of the Fulton County Confederate Veterans' association. Those who survive of the glorious old Forty-second Georgia know him best ot all, for they saw him in the impeteous charge at Resaca, when Henderson and Hulsey covered themselves in glory, and where Calhoun foll desperately wounded. But he is with us today. I present the Hon. W. L. Calhoun."

speeches by Colonel Thomas, Ex-Governor McDaniel and Others.

It was a grand day for Monroe. The occasion was the reunion of the veterans of the Forty-second Georgia, and may be pro-nounced as one of the happiest events that has ever taken place in Georgia.

Early in the day the crowd began to assemble, and steadily increased until it numbered at least 6,000. Monroe was in gala attire, and the good people vied with one another in honoring their

A very tempting feast was spread before the crowd in the shape of an old fashioned barbecue. After this came the speeches of the day, which were very fine.

The Exercises of the Day.

Colonel L. P. Thomas, president of the association, presided in a happy manufer. He in-troduced the different speakers, his remarks always being appropriate and to the point. "Ladies, Fellow Citizens of Walton and Members of the Forty-second Georgia Veterans Association: I greet you with the warmans Association: I greet you with the warmest expressions of gratitude," he began, in opening the exercises. "I am not on the programme to speak, but as the president of this association, it is expected of me to introduce? I should have said announce. Who does not know our late fellow-citizen and governor, whom we all learned to love so well? It would be useles for me to speak in praise of him. As whom we are learned to vee so well. It would be useless for me to speak in praise of him. As our governor he was just and kind, and the people of this commonwealth honor him from the mountains to the seaboard as patriot, statesman, scholar and friend. Ex-Governor Henry D. McDaniel will now deliver the wel-

Fifty-four thorsand man fell at detysburg. The blood of thirty-three thousand men dranched the soil of Georgia at Chicamanga. Recognizing this devotion and this manhood you have invited these oid soldiers to come among you and extended to them your hospitalities that they may meet each other in social communion and fight their battles over again. It is well. In a few years there will be no more reguinon—there will be no confederate veterans. They are falling one by one. Their places cannot be filled, Since our last requinon Captain Mercer and others of this regiment have died. You all remember how interestingly and eloquently be told of the incidents of the war as related to our command. He will speak no more to us. A brave. noble life ended when Mercer died. While we live let us be true to each other and strive to win those better and boiler victories that are won in peace. Feace hath her vic ories no less renowned than war. You will win many more. In the beautiful language of one of her sons: "Among all the great commonwealths of the union, there is, perhaps, no single one as royally endowed by nature as Georgia. Whether we regard her versatile agricultural fartility, her varied mineral wealth, her manufacturing possibilities or her commercial advantages, she has them all in affluent profusion; and superadding to them a healthy climate ranging from the purest of mountain air to the fresh buoyancy of her ocean border, a prodigal possession of crystal springs and rivers, and scenery variedly picturesque, it is no exaggeration to claim for her a leading position in the august sisterhood of state." Though oppressed as few people ever were, the field was inviting and you entered with braw hearts and strong arms. You are still there and intend to stay. As a result of your industry and ability compare the condition of the state it the close of the war and now. See the railroads traversing every section of the state; the towns and cities largely increased in population, with mannifecent business houses, public buildi Henry D. McDaniel will now deliver the welcome address."

GOVERNOR M'DANIEL'S SPRECH.

Mr. President and Survivors of the Forty-Second Georgia Regiment: The occasion of this assemblage remiteds us of events no true Georgian can ever forget. Not to revive the passions and prejudices that led to the war between the states; not to keep alive sectional hatred. The questions in Issue have been decided by the sword—with us the settlement is final. Our only concern is to maintain self-respect; to preserve the truth of history, in order to vindicate our motives and conduct in the judgment of posterity. The 4th day of March, 1862, saw the streets of Monroe thronged with the patriotic citizens of the our motives and conduct in the judgment of posterity. The 4th day of March, 1852, saw the streets of Monroe thronged with the patriotic citizens of the county. Fort Doneson and Fort Henry in the west had fallen, and Albert Sidney Johnston was retreating toward Shiloh, soon to be immortalized by his genius, and consecrated by his death. This consummate leader was gathering and fashioning the army, whose later deeds shed unfading lustre upon confederate army. The reaction from earlier victories followed by recent reverses, cast a gloom over the south, but did not repress the ardor of her people.

The governor of Georgia called for many regiments of volunteers—for two companies from Walton. Four companies had already gone from the county to the army of northern Virginia—Hillyer's in the 18th, and Barrett's in the 35th Georgia regiments. More than one hundred recruits had joined the first two of these commands. Gran't cavalry company was being organized for western service. The remaining youth did not dally in the cause upon which the state had staked the lives and fortunes of for citize'hs. On that 4th day of March, the two companies called for were enrolled, under McCollum and Mitchell, and were soon mustered into service in the 42d Georgia regiment, whose reunion we are here to celebrate.

ium and Mitchell, and were soon mustered into service in the 42d Georgia regiment, whose reunion we are here to celebrate.

Thenceforward the history of the regiment may be traced in the heroic endeavors of the western army to repel invasion. Sometimes buoyant with hope and fusined with victory; sometimes stubborn in retreat before overwhelming numbers—always marching and lighting with endurance and valor never surpassed in warfare. It would be a proud task, were the duly assigned to me, to mention in detail the deeds of the regiment and of the officers and men; how Malcom fell at Chicasaw bayou; how Henderson and Hulsey and Calhoun were wounded at Resaca; how imperishable renown was you in the battle of $2.3 July, 1861, near Atlanta in one of the most brilliant charges of the war, led by Colonel Thomas, your honored president, then senior captain. In tribute to such a record, the survivors of that gallant band, after the lapse of a quarter of a century, are greeted with the 'welcome now beaming in the faces and moistening the eyes of this vast multitude. Here are veterans of the candra who went from Walton to share your dangers and hardships and renown in the west; here are veterans of more advanced age and later service, who left the country under Walker and Selman and Pendegrass and Hardman and Safold to aid in rebelling the invader and to drive him from the state; here are fathers and mothers who sent sons to the front never to return; here are men and women, youths and maidens, who have heard of your knightly dead, of McCollum, of Young and Williams and Weaver and Wyle and Mayfield and others, and whose eyes kindle at the mention of Vicksburg, Resaca New Hope, Atlanta, Franklin—all these welcome you and rejoice in the privilege of sharing your reunion.

Not do we think only of the march and bivonce and battle, of the courage and endurance which welcome you and rejoice in the privilege of sharing your reunion.

Nor do we think only of the march and bivonac and battle, of the courage and endurance which kept you true to the diag you followed, of the renown you have won for the state on the page of history. The time will never come when we cease to glory in these as priceless contributions to the fame of our common country. But veterans of the confederate armies have a prouder title, if that were possible, to the gratitude and admiration of posterity. When the flag of the union floated again over all the states, and the soldiers of opposing armies, with nutual respect and pride in American valor, parted in peace, the victors returning to bonfires, and fleastings and honors and power, the vanquished to ruined homes and poverty and toll; when partisan hate offered prescription instead of reconciliation, and sought to degrade states into provinces, Georgians first roused themselves to the danger, and maintained their rights under the constitution. No people of any age have been confronted with evils of such magnitude—none have overcome them in a nobler spirit of forbearance and loyalty to the pl.dgs of their leaders and the principles of their fathers. They lent the energies, which in warfare had assonished the civilized world, to the task of regaining control of the state government. They rebuilt the social fabric, restored material prosperity, and secured to every citizen of whatever race or color all the rights to which he is entitled. Americans point with pride to many periods in the history of our common country. As this period recedes in our annais, southern abaracter in acteat will shine with a lustre like hast which rendered southern valor the admiration of mankind. In this mighty achievement, the confederate soldier was forement. The counties in Georgia which sent the 42d Georgia to the field—Dekalb, Fulton, Gwin-ett, Milton, Newton and Walton—have led the van of southern-progress and development.

Wherever men have been needed, in this grand work, your reunion.

Nor do we think only of the march and bivouac it should be so in giving an account of this battle.

It is to be regretted that the speech cannot be given in full as it was delivered. It was well worthy a full report.

This was the last speech on the programme, but other interesting short talks were made by Captain Eligh Clarke, Lieutenant B. F. Walker and Chaplain Myers.

The day passed off without an event or circumstance to mar the pleasure of the occasion. Ex-Governor McDaniel and his hospitable family entertained the president of the association and his wife; also Coionel W. L. Calhoun, Mr. Mitchell and others. The entire community yied with each other in acts of marts of trade, in legislative halls or in the courts, in city, town or country, veterans of the 42d Georgia have been conspicuous.

The people of Walton welcome you today as well, as for your virtues in phace, as for your valor and devotion in wer. And these veterans of other armies view your remaion with deepest sympathy. They know how joyful would be such a gathering of their surviving comrades, scattered in distant parts of the state. As you clasp hands with comrades who may have shared with you a crust or a canteen on the march, or a blanket in the bivounc, or who may have assisted you, wounded or fainting from the battefield, they are reminded of these who stood with them at Manassas, or Gettysburg, or the Wilderness, and their grees moiston at sight of your emotion, and they rejoice to be with you. In greeting you, and bidding you welcome to the hospitalities and attentions of the people of Waltor, I express their fervent hope that if may be long ere your ranks are further thinned by death, and that you may have many similor reunsons.

In presenting the Hon. W. L. Calhoun, Colonel Thomas said: "It is now my pleasant duty to present a 'gentleman who is known almost as well he your esteemed citizen, ex-Governor McDaniel. While he may not be known as well to your people, yet the citizens of the gate city know him well, and have honored him with the highest position in their gift; as he was once mayor of our city. Indeed, I can say he has hever asked anything at the hands of our people that he did not get. He is now the respected ordinary of Fulton county, and the president of the Fulton County Confederate Veteraris' association. Those who survive of the glerious old Forty-second Georgia know him best of all, for they saw him in the impeteous charge at Resaca, when Henderson and Hulsey covered themselves in glory, and where Calhoun fell desperately wounded. But he is with us today. I present the Hon. W. L. Calhoun."

Mr. President, Fellow-Citizens os Walton County and Comrades.—In response to the carnest and eloquent words of welcome to which we have just listened, it affords me sincere pleasure, in behalf of the surving members of the Forty-Second Georgia, to say that we thank you and appreciate most highly your kindness and hospitality. Falling as they for from the lips of so distinguished a citizen of your county; one who, as chief magistrate, honored himself, honored you, and honored himself, honored you.

one who, when he retired from the executive office, left a record for integrity, faithful discharge of every duty, and ability that hes not been surpassed in the lipast history of our state. We appreciate them the more highly and feel assured that he as your representative on this occasion has truthfully expressed your sentiments. The fact, too, that this cordial invitation comes to us from a county named after some of the signers of the declaration of American independence, and which has maintained itself so stoully among its sis ter counties of the state, increases our gratitude and confers upon us additional hour. You have invited the survivors of our regiment to meet here and accept of your hospitality. We may inquire why have you done so? What interest attaches to these old veterans? Twenty-five years have passed since grim-visaged war, with all its horrors and cruelities desolated this fair land of ours. In its stead, thank heaven, sweet peace prevails, and the angel thereof presides in every household. We can, therefore, speak calmly of the past. What have these men done? When their country called did they respond? Let Tazewell, Cumberland Gap, Chickasaw Bayou, Baker's creek, Vicksburg, Missionary Ridge, Rocky Face, Resacca, New Hope, Pumpkin Vine, Kennesaw, Atlanta, Jonesboro. Franklin, Nashville, Edisto river, Orangeburg, Kingston and Bentonville speak. Let the maimed and wounded and worn-out survivors of those bloody fields speak. Let those who confronted and engaged them in deadly conflict speak. Let the sorrows and tears and heart-breaks of our women over the loss of their loved ones speak. You know that for four long years the solders of the south with binavery and heroism musurpassed confronted nearly three millions focs in the bloodier three millions focs in the bloodier three millions focs in the bloodier and in which the percentage of killed and woundad was greater than in any other. The Commission Men Charge D. Against Atlanta—The Railroads Say "No." THE CONSTITUTION'S remarks upon the

The matter was pretty thoroughly discussed in railroad and business circles yesterday. A prominent railroad agent-and the agent of a prominent railroad—was quite emphatic in his remarks. "It is nonsense to talk about our forcing peo ple to use common box cars for their ship ments to Atlanta," he said. "The railroads put all the available cars down into the melor country and they are loaded as fas received. It takes all the cars that can be received to move the crop, particularly in a season like this and after the fruit ca are in service the box cars are loaded. Now the railroads don't load these cars and very often do not know to what point any car is to "Nearly all the melons that go to Cincin nati, Chicago, and other northern markets are billed to Atlanta. They may be sold on the track here, or shipped to some of these points, and in cases like this we could have no object, even if we knew all about the shipper's inten-tions, to force the loading of melons in any particular class of cars.

"Atlanta is of course, nearer to the melon country than the other points to which the crop is snipped, and it would be to the best interest of the growers if all their shipments to northern points were made in the ventilated fruit cars. The fruit is longer in transit and as the surplus is sent to the most available and promising points it would be business to put them in the best cars obtainable and send them over the roads that offered the best and quickest transportation. Of course melons will rot and spoil, but they are more liable to do this on a long than on a short haul. It is more than likely that growers who ship melons to Atlanta appreciate this fact and select the ventilated cars for their shipments to points outside the state. It certhis fact and select the ventilated cars for their shipments to points outside the state. It certainly could not profit the railroads a dollar to make any arbitrary rale as to the kind of cars that melons should be shipped in. And I tell you the railroads have to keep things moving lively to get cars of any kind in sufficient number to get the Georgia melons to the market."

the market.' "What about the rates for the shipment of melons?"
"The rates are high, but you must take the nature of the crops into consideration, and the fact that it has to be transported on fast trains. Then there are other items of expense, so that when you figure it all out the rates will not be found excessive. A comparison of the rates on melons with the rates on California fruits and the shipment of perishable goods from any section that has equal facilities with Georgia, will show that the railroads are not doing any robbing as far as the melon business is concerned."

A Commission Man's Views,
Mr. J. J. Falvey, a commission merchant who handles melons quite extensively, ex-plained his side of the question yesterday in a talk with a Constitution man.

"The blame in this matter," he said, "clearly rests upon the railroads." The railroad men should answer this question, for with them all the trouble lies. The railfor with them all the trouble lies. The rail-road commission makes the minimum capacity twenty thousand pounds to the car and the maximum capacity twenty-four thousand pounds, and they allowed the maximum to every other point but Atlanta, thereby taking advantage of the Atlanta dealer and grower."
"By way of illustration," continued Mr. Fal-vey, "let me show the result of this discrimi-nation against Atlanta. One can ship melons vey, the mean of the short and the short against Atlanta. One can ship melons from Albany, Ga., to Kansas City for $107 per car of 24.000 pounds, but if shipped to Atlanta car of 24,000 pounds, but if shipped to Atlanta and then to Kansas City, the cost would be $130 per car."

"What per cent does the commission mer-"What per cent does the commission mer-chant receive and what the railroad?"
"The commission merchant receives only the regular ten per cent. If he sells a carload of melons, shipped from southwest Georgia, for one hundred dollars he gets only ten dol-lars. But the railroads get thirty-three dollars. If there is any shark in the transaction it is the railroad and not the commission merchant. The blame should rest where it belongs. The commission men have made every endeavor to have the railroads act justly toward the have the railroads act justly toward the growers, but could not have Atlanta to get an equal showing with all other points."

'How about the transportation afforded by the railroads?"

"Well, the railrads sent all their fruit cars Virginia and Georgia railroad, and at points where there was no competition they forced the growers to ship in common box cars, causing the melons to deteriorate in value from twenty-five to forty dollars per car, a handsome profit itself to the grower. The railroads are fighting the melon business by discriminating against Atlanta both in cars and in rates."

"This," said Mr. Falvey, "should vindicate the commission men of Atlanta, who stand as high for business integrity as any class of men in Atlanta." Virginia and Georgia railroad, and at point

CLONEL HULSEY'S SPECH.

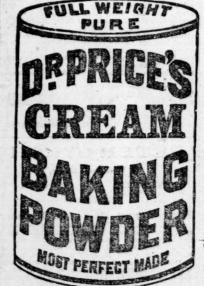

Colonel Hulsey said: I have been filled with emotions today listening to the grand and patriotic words that have failen from the lips of the two distinguished speakers who have pecceded me—Governor McDaniel and Judge Calhoun. Truly their names ought te be set in applies of gold and pictures of silver. Such sentiments carry me back across a span for a quarter of a century and make freens if a boy again, instead of the man that I am. The expression of Governor McDaniel I trust will go into print that we may find treasures and food f r reflection in the bye and bye. I am glad to meet my old comrades in arms again; glad to look them in the face and take them by the hand, but it pains me to see that the restless path of time, year by year, cuts deep in the cheek the furnows of care; pained that our locks are growing grayer, and this reminds me to say that it must be; it will be that, year by year, our numbers will grow smaller and smaller. This fact ought to intensify our devotion to each other, and closer bind the bonds of our friendship. As our numbers decrease let us stand closer and closer together, until when there is but one of us left, let him take that old and tattered flag, plant it and look up and breathe a prayer to reunite those who have gone before on fame's cteinal camping ground, where their silent tenis are syread, and where glory guards with mounds, the bivouae of the dead. I will not weary you, and in conclusion I will say you will now be addressed by a man who will entertain you in a splendid manner. He was a gallant soldler and is a clitzen of integrity and of great worth. I refer to Lieutenant W. T. Smith, whom Colonel Thomas will now introduce.

Captain Smith was then presented in the following appropriate remarks by the president, Colonel Thomas. He said: "The next speaker on the programme, my friends, deserves as much credit for what William T. Smith, of Gwinnett, and captain of Company B."

CAPTAIN SMITH'S REMARKS.

Captain W. T. Smith's effort was the grandest of his life. He had compliments on all sides. He gave a history of the sufferings of his old command, and spoke at length on the great battle of 22d of July around Atlanta. His description of the charge of the Forty-second Georgia was one of the features of the day. It carried his old comrades by storm, and one by one would raise the "rebel yell." His descriptive powers are wonderful, but it is not strange that it should be so in giving an account of this battle. # Concerning the Watch Clubs

Which we are organizing we desire to state that we are putting within reach of all the greatest value in this article that has ever been offered for $50. These watches have been retailed for $60, but we have made contracts with the manufacturers for $50,000 worth of these goods by which we had such concessions that we can sell them for $50 each. The cases are sold 14 karat gold throughout and handsomely engraved. The movements are full jeweled nickel, with brequet hairspring, patent regulator and modern improvements, that will produce the most accurate and reliable time-pieces. The sale of each watch is accompanied by our written guarantee, and every member of the club gets a gold watch worth $50.

We have definitely contracted to have $50,000 worth of these watches delivered to us by the manufacturers and in order to dispose of these goods, through our clubs, we have arranged with Messrs. Caulfield & Underwood to organize them for us. This week we will have five men in the field canvassing for us, but parties who have not been reached by them and wishing to join our clubs can drop us a postal, with their address, and we will be pleased to call and enroll their names upon the club lists.

Clubs are constantly forming, join now and get a Gold Watch for $1,00 per week. Every member is guaranteed to get a Gold Watch worth Fifty Dollars. J. P. STEVENS & BRO., Jewelers. 47 Whitehall St.

CANADIAN CATARRH CURE CO.—Centlement:
Several weeks 200, I called at your office, and you gave me a sample bottle of your "Catarrh Cire."
I had suffered with a bad case of catarth for some of time. I have only used the sample bottle you gave me, and it has completely cured me. I heartily recommend it to any one suffering with catarrh.
One small sample bottle has cured.

Yours truly.

Lighter, cheaper and better than the best rubber hose.

Made on the same principle as the rubber-lined hose used in fire departments, which last for years.

The cotton duck used in all rubber hose draws in water, wherever exposed, as a wick absorbs oil, and being confined by rubber generates a sulphurous gas, quickly destroying the best rubber hose. The "Spiral" Hose, having no outside covering to imprison the moisture, will dry like a towel.

There are imitations, so buy only that which has one red line running through it, and which is branded "Spiral," patented March 30, "80. If your dealer does not have it in stock, let him get it. Sample mailed to any address for siz cents.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The stock market relapsed into duliness and stagnation today, traders having the market almost entirely to themselves, and fluctuations being confined to the usual narrow range when such condition provails. London quotations this morning came lower, but that had little or no effect and traders around to work as usual to have this morning came lower, but that had little or no effect, and traders soon got to work as usual to hammer the list. Their efforts, however, resulted in almost nothing, though they did succeed in getting Missouri Pacific off one per cent. The principal pressure was directed against St. Paul and Reading, but the stocks mentioned were very well held and the attack was given up about noon, after which there was general improvement, though it was spesmodic and uncertain. The opening was dull and irregular, though most of the changes from last evening were for smallest fractions, and Pacific Mail, which was down ½, and Northwestern, which was up ½ per cent, were the only notable differences. Some little improvement was made in the first few minutes, but the efforts of bears soon shaded the list off. The lowest prices were reached generally about noon, after which the whole list began to improve and specialties made marked ad vances, the most prominent being Alton and Terre Haute, Manitoba and Tenpessee Coal. The list developed no further feature and the close was dull but steady to firm at but slight changes from opening prices. At the close prices were generally higher, but the only important ones were Manitoba 2 per cent, Alton and Terre Haute 2½, and Richmond and West Point preferred 1½. NEW YORK, July 20—Hubbard, Price & Co., in their circular today, say: Very little positive animation was shown at any time during the day. Efforts at manipulation seem to have ceased for the moment, and, with the bullish feeling toned down, the tendency appeared to be to get rid of a portion of August holdings, and sales to realize had a weakening influence. Offerings were fairly taken care of, but at the close rates stood five points under last evening. New crop pifces have been fairly maintained, with an apparent tendency to buy September at a large difference in cost. The other months are about unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in CHICAGO, July 20-Wheat was steady to firm today for good reasons. Early cables were conflicting as on Thursday, but continental advices were bull-ish and the taking of eleven boat loads at New York for export about noon caused a rally that put prices several fractions over the close of last night, and caused August to sell a shade better than advanced the opening price this morning. The receipts here were forty-eight cars, at St. Louis 96,000 bushels and were forty-eight cars, at St. Louis 20,000 bushels and at all primary wheat in sight markets but 256,000 bushels. These were offset by light clearances at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Action until near the close was: August 80% down to 79% and up to 80%; September 30%, down to 79%, and up to 79%. The closing prices were slightly under the top for the day and a little over the close of the the state of the sta of last night. August 80½; September 79¾.

The corn market was in good condition for a little reaction this morning and the selling by a couple of the receipt of 226 cars this morning the break can easily, and August sold from 48% down to 47% in short order. Later the feeling changed, the estimate for Saturday was 180 cars and a slow rally took August up to 47% and closed at 47% or ¼ under last night. September sold at 46% 77% colosing at night. September sold at 40%0.7% c closing at 47%c.

In oats there was nothing of special interest developed, there being no more than moderate trading, and prices ranged within so small a range that there was no essential change.

In provisions a stronger feeling developed. Arrivals of hogs were light and prices were 15 to 20c higher. The consumptive demand from outside points has improved and the sales of cash products for immediate and future shipments show a decided improvement. Shorts were thoroughly scared and rushed to cover. Offerings were not particularly large. The most activity was at the opening, when prices touched the highest point. prices touched the highest point.

August pork touched $13.80, but broke to $13.65 and closed at $13.67½, an advance of 7½ to 10c over yesterday's close. January is $12.90.

The English crowd took hold of lard and August sold at 8.471/@8.521/c and closed at 8.471/2, a net gair of 9½c. Short ribs for August were purchased freely at 7.92\%@7.95, a gain of 12\%c. The following was the range in the leading intures in Chicago today:

THE SUNDAY PROGRAMMER AT CHAUTAROUA

THE SUNDAY PROGRAMME AT CHAUTAUQUA.

The Sunday programme at Chautauqua is a good one. There is a sermon in the morning by Dr. E. H. Barnett, of the First Presbyterian church of Atlanta, with sacred music led by Dr. R. Barnett, of the First Presbyterian church of Atlanta, with sacred music led by the cornets and piccalos of the Rogers band, assisted by the organ and piano. The rendering of the old religious hymns with such accompaniments will be grand.

Dr. Barnett will preach at 11:30. Dr. Moore will preach at 7:30. There will be song services during the afternoon and a Sunday school mass meeting addressed by Professor Henry Louis Smith. Vespers at six o'clock, conducted by Dr. A. H. Gillett. The Chautauqua faculty and force is now fully organized and it is intended to make this an ideal Sunday in the woods—a day of rest, music and worship. Tonight the Calhoun club of Anniston and their friends will visit Chautauqua about forty strong in two Mann Boudoir cars and will spend Sunday at Chautauqua.

Professor Woodall, who has just been elected principal of the Columbus high school, is so impressed with the advantages of the Chautauqua college that he has just contributed a scholarship to be given to the first worthy young man or woman who calls for it. Professor Woodall will probably return and take a course in the college himself.

Mr. Carlisle's Visit.

The visit of Mr. Carlisle is the topic of the

The visit of Mr. Carlisle is the topic of the town. Messrs. W. T. Turnbull and Frank Arnold have been requested by the Chautauqua management to accompany the president of the Chautauqua company and one or two directors to Washington and take charge of Mr. Carlisle's visit to Georgia. The committee of escort will leave Monday morning, will reach Washington Tuesday morning, and will return with Mr. Carlisle and his friends Tuesday night, reaching Atlanta early Thursday morn ing.

The public will be gratified to learn that Messrs. Mills and Breckinridge will accompany Mr. Carlisle on his visit to Chautauqua, and the programme is to have Mr. Carlisle held a public recention in the tebes of the Carlisle held. e reception in the tabernacle of the Cha the programme is to have Mr. Carlisio hold a public reception in the tabernacle of the Chautauqua on Thursday morning, to make his address on "The Taxing Power of the Government" at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and then to adjourn for supper. Atnight there will be a display of fireworks, the Chautauqua grounds will be illuminated and a torchlight procession of five hundred young democrats will escort. Mr. Carlisle, Messrs. Mills and Breckinriege to the tabernacle, where the latter gentleman will speak. This will give such a day of eloquence at Chautauqua as ought to attract twenty-five thousand people. The Hon. Henry Watterson has also been invited to attend, and will in all probability do so. If so, he will also be one of the most popular and attractive speakers—even in this trio of giants.

Arrangements have been made with every road in Georgia for a cent a mile rate for Wednesday, preceding Mr. Carlisle's vist, and on points near Atlanta for Thursday morning, the lay of his visit, except on the Georgia road, which road has declined to give the rate of one cent a mile for that day. The result of the liberality on the part of the roads will be such an outpouring of Georgia democrats as has never been witnessed in the United States.

It will be Presbyterian day at Chantauc on Sunday. Both Br. Barnett and Dr. Mo are distinguished Presbyterian divines. Governor Gordon and Senator Colquist will spend Sunday at Chautauqua. PEABODY INSTITUTE.

Last Day's Exercises at Soft Springs-Reso-lutions, Etc. SALT SPRINGS, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—Professor H. H. Smith gave a very entertaining account of his trip to Europe a short time Professor Parker closed his lectures on series.

Miss Bowen wound up her talks on astronomy. All of her lectures have shown special and thorough preparation for her work.

Professor Zettler, in his fine conversational style, gave a talk on spelling. He always pleases his hearers.

Professor Woodall closed his lectures with a talk on infiniting and particulates.

talk on infinitives and participles. This lecture, like all that ho delivered, was pointed and practical. Professor Graham gave a kind of summing up of what he has been over for two weeks, adding that mathematical testing what he has been over for two weeks, adding that mathematical training is excellent for the mind. Dr. Payne insisted that an indispensible qualification for teachers was intelligence. He gave a list of books that teachers could read with great profit. His lecture closed the exercises proper for the present year.

closed the exercises proper for the present year.

Judge Hook was invited to occupy the chair, when Dr. Smith offered the following preamble and resolutions:

Now that the labors of the Peabody institute are drawing to a close, and we are soon to put with Dr. W. H. Payne, president Normal colese, Nashville, Tenn., who, by invitation of the state school commissioner of Georgia, has presided over the exercises and deliberations of the body, as well as entertained it with daily lectures, we the corps selected to aid him, and all teachers attending but obey the impulses of our hearts when we say we separate from this justly eminent and distinguished normal instructor most reluctantly. As expressive of our sentiments on this occasion we resolve as follows:

1. That in the person of Dr. Payne we have found a most disnified but genial companion, a ripe scholar, and an experienced instructor; a man of extensive and varied learning and specially gifted as a lecturer in normal work, with the faculty of imparting knowledge in the simplest language, fortified by most spt and happy illustrations and forcible analysis.

2. By his courteous bearing and eminent qualifi-mined by most apt and happy illustrations and forcible analysis.

2. By his courteous bearing and eminent qualifications, no less than by his charming modesty of deportment, so characteristic of men of true eminence, he has won the lasting confidence and esteem of all the members of this institute, and the many who have attended our meetings, and we feel it but hat and true to say that we have been greatly benefied and instructed by his series of admirable lectures, and that it is our sincere conviction that the good he has done in our midst, of inspiring a new enthusiasm among us for still higher and better methods of instruction, will be long felt and waying appreciated in this state.

3. We recognize in Dr. Payne a fine man, a high-toned gentleman, and an humble, unostentations.

oned gentleman, and an humble, unostentatious boristan, and in bidding him good-bye, we invoke for him long life, continued high usefulness land nuch happiness. These resolutions were unanimously interested by a rising vote.

Professor Zettler then offered the following resolutions, which were as heartily concurred in:

THE SUNDAY PROGRAMME AT CHAUTAUQUA.

THE SUNDAY PROGRAMME AT CHAUTAUQUA.
The Sunday programme at Chautauqua is a good one. There is a sermon in the morning by Dr. E. H. Barnett, of the First Presbyterian church of Atlanta, with sacred music led ian church of Atlanta, with sacred music led by the cornets and piccalos of the Rogers band, assisted by the organ and piano. The rendering of the old religious hymns with such accompaniments will be grand.

Dr. Barnett will preach at 11:30. Dr. Moore will preach at 7:30. There will be song services during the afternoon and a Sunday school mass meeting addressed by Professor Henry Louis Smith. Vespers at six o'clock, con-ducted by Dr. A. H. Gillett. The Chautauqua faculty and force is now fully organized and it is intended to make this an ideal Sunday in the woods—a day of rest, music and worship. Tonight the Calhoun club of Anniston and their friends will visit Chautauqua about forty Tonight the Calhoun club of Anniston and their friends will visit Chautauqua about forty strong in two Mann Boudoir cars and will spend Sunday at Chautauqua.

Professor Woodall, who has just been elected principal of the Columbus high school, is so impressed with the advantages of the Chautauqua college that he has just contributed a scholarship to be given to the first worthy young man or woman who calls for it. Professor Woodall will probably return and take a course in the college himself.

Mr. Carlisle's Visit.

The visit of Mr. Carlisle is the tonic of the

The visit of Mr. Carlisle is the topic of the town. Messrs. W. T. Turnbull and Frank Arnold have been requested by the Chautauqua management to accompany the president of the Chautauqua company and one or two directors to Washington and take charge of Mr. Carlisle's visit to Georgia. The committee of escort will leave Monday morning, will reach Washington Tuesday morning, and will re-turn with Mr. Carlisle and his friends Tuesday night, reaching Atlanta early Thursday morn-

The public will be gratified to learn that The public will be gratified to learn that Messrs. Mills and Breckinridge will accompany Mr. Carlisle on his visit to Chautauqua, and the programme is to have Mr. Carlisle hold a public reception in the tabernacle of the Chautauqua on Thursday morning, to make his address on "The Taxing Power of the Government" at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and then to adjourn for supper. At night there will be a display of fireworks, the Chautauqua grounds will be illuminated and a torchlight procession of five hundred young democrats will escort Mr. Carlisle, Messrs. Mills and Breckinriege to the tabernacle, where the latter-gentleman will speak. This will give such a day of eloquence at Chautauqua as ought to attract twenty-five thousand people. The Hon. Henry Watterson has also been invited to attend, and will in all probability do so. It so, he will also be one of the most popular and attractive speakers—even in this trio of giants.

PEABODY INSTITUTE.

Last Day's Exercises at Salt Springs-Resolutions, Etc. SALT SPRINGS, Ga., July 20.—[Special.]—Professor H. H. Smith gave a very entertaining account of his trip to Europe a short time

Professor Parker closed his lectures on geometry with the best lecture of his whole geometry with the best lecture of his whole series.

Miss Bowen wound up her talks on astronomy. All of her lectures have shown special and thorough preparation for her work.

Professor Zettler, in his fine conversational style, gave a talk on spelling. He always pleases his hearers.

Professor Woodall closed his lectures with a talk on infinitives and participles. This lecture, like all that he has delivered, was pointed and practical. Professor Graham gave a kind of summing up of what he has been over for two weeks, adding that mathematical training is excellent for the mind. Dr. Payne insisted that an indispensible qualifiaction for teachers was intelligence. He gave alist of books that teachers could read with great profit. His lecture closed the exercises proper for the present year.

Judge Hook was invited to occupy the chair.

Judge Hook was invited to occupy the chair, when Dr. Smith offered the following preamble and resolutions:
Now that the labors of the Peabody institute are drawing to a close, and we are soon to pat with Dr. W. H. Payne, president Normal college, Nashville, Tenn., who, by invitation of the state school commissioner of Georgia, has presided over the exercises and deliberations of the body, as well as entertained the with daily lectures, we the corps selected to aid him, and all teachers attending but obey the impulses of our hearts when we say we separate from this justly eminent and distinguished normal instructor most rejuctantly. As expressive of our sentiments on this occasion we resolve as follows:

1. That in the person of Dr. Payne we have found a most dignified but genial companion, a ripe scholar, and an experienced instructor; a man of extensive and varied learning and specially gifted as a lecturer in normal work, with the faculty of imparting knowledge in the simplest language, for slifed by most apt and happy illustrations and foreible analysis.

2. By his courteous bearing and eminent qualififified by most apt and happy illustrations and forcible analysis.

2. By his contreous bearing and eminent qualifications, no less than by his charming modesty of deportment, so characteristic of men of true eminence, he has won the lasting confidence and esteem of all the members of this institute, had the many who have attended our meetings, and we feel it but just and true to say that we have been greatly bonefitted and instructed by his series of admirable lectures, and that it is our sincere conviction that the good he has done in our midst, of inspiring a new enthusiasm among us for still higher and better methods of instruction, will be long felt and wavuly appreciated in this state.

6. To the landlords of the notels and to all the citizens of this place, who have so kindly greeted and treated us, we tender our heartiest thanks. We have seen no hotel or community where guests find a more cordial -recting or kinder treatment.

7. That we request the press of the state to publish these resolutions.

7. That we request the press of the state to publish these resolutions.

Professor Woodall offered the following:
Resolved. That we, the teachers, who have been attending this session of the Peabody Normal institute return our most sincere thanks to our efficient state school commissioner, Julige Hook, for the spiendid programme that he made in arranging for the exercises of the present normal session and for the manner in which he has carried it out for our pleasure and instruction; and, also, for the earnest personal efforts that he has made for the pleasure and comfort of each one of us.

This resolution was enthusiastically adopted. A resolution of thanks to the institute lecturers and to the secretary of the institute was offered by Professor Boba and passed. After this the institute adjourned sine die.

ITS SUCCESS.

Dr. Tanner's Opium Cure, Manufactured by Benjamin & Cronheim, is Doing the Work. Benjamin & Cronneim, is Doing the Work. Yesterday afternoon a Constitution representative had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Benjamin, and asked him about the success of his opium oure.

"It is all right," said the doctor, "and is selling rapidly. We have sold it to parties in every part of the south and southwest. You see it has merit and that alone makes it sell. Wherever we sell our bottless of root a patient was are sure to sell wore. In tles or treat a patient we are sure to sell more, because it advertises itself. You would be surpr to see the quantity of mail we get inquiring about the cure, and our business is growing rapidly. Our medicine is put up in a practical and scientific man-prepared."

In addition to being the proprietors of this celebrated opium cure, these young men have one of the nicest and choicest drug stores in the city. ### THE RAILROADS.

Points of Interest About the Tie and Rail.

Many Patents and Big Money in Car Couplers Convention at Monteagle-A Big Car Contract-Brief Mention.

Contract—Brief Mention.

A railroad man is quoted in the Chattanooga Times as follows: "The railroads lately are exhibiting a remarkable solicitude for their overworked conductors, and are consequently making new departures that seem highly satisfactory to the roads. The latest novelty in this direction is on the Ohio and Mississippi and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroads. On the Ohio and Mississippi, according to a late regulation, the conductors of passenger trains have nothing to do with collecting tickets and fares, but their duties have been reduced to simply running the trains. Each train has a regular collector, who takes up fares and has nothing else to do but turn the money into the headquarters of the road. On the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton the rule is stightly more favorable. The regular conductor is not allowed to collect cash fares, but he is preceded on his collecting tour by another person, who sells tickets on the train to those who are not provided with the necessary pastel oards. The only reason the same rules are not enforced on southers roads is because the conductors are fully able to run; their own trains, and they never get their own money mixed together. If they should, of course, they would turn in more than they collected.

The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad company yesterday let one of the largest contracts for cars that has ever been given to one firm by any southern road. The contract is for three hundred flat and coal cars, and was a warded.

firm by any southern road. The contract is for three hundred flat and coal cars, and was awarded to the Southern car works. The contract does not specify the time when the cars are to be delivered, but it will probably be within twelve months.

Conventions at Monteagle.

All southern lines have been asked to sell round trip tickets at one fare to Monteagle, Tenn., on account of the following conventions Fouthern S ates Sunday-school convention, meeting at Monteagle on the 20th of July, tickets to be sold July 19, good to return on or before the 31st of July.

Chantauqua Literary Circle and Georgia Day, 27th of July, tickets to be sold July 25, good for return on or be fore August 6.

Young Men's Christian association and "Alabama Day," A gust 12, tickets to be sold August 12, good for return on or before August 22.

Young People's meeting and Tennessee Day, August 20, tickets to be sold August 19, good to return on or before August 31.

Appliances For Coupling Cars.

A builder experienced in reilroad meeters

A builder, experienced in railroad matters, states that if the railroads comply with the suggestions of the master car builders and change the present man-killing system of coupling in universal use on freight cars, the cost would be $25.50 per car, use on freight cars, the cost would be $25.50 per car, and as there are 1,000,000 cars in the United States the cost would be $25.500,000. It is also estimated the present system of coupling costs $17,000,000 per annum for accidents, wreeks and various other causes. An automatic coupler would, therefore, it is stated, be cheaper in the end, and a great cry of thanksgiving would arise from the thousands of men who risk their lives every time they step between two cars. It is not generally known that there are over 5,000 separate letters patent in existence on car coupling.

Not in Atlanta.

A western paper published in a city that is evidently favored with railroad crossings on the Atlanta plan, tells of a soit instituted by a business man for damages, because he was detained by a train that blockaded a crossing. He had an important business engagement and the blocking of the street cursed him to miss it. He should get a verdict and then move to Atlanta and tell a long-suifering public how to manage it.

The railroads will soil inckets at low rates on

The railroads will sell tickets at low rates on Thursday next, the 26th instant, and there will be a big crowd to welcome the Hon. John G. Carlisle and other distinguished men at Chautauoua on that date. The East Tennessee and the Western and Atlantic has already agreed on a rate from points north of Atlanta, and the former road has issued a fiyer giving round-trip rates from important points. The railroads will sell tickets at low rates on

The Scribner Articles. The Scribner Articles.

The railway articles in Scribner's Magazine are very popular with railroad men. The third of the seites, entitled "American Locomotives and Cars," by M. N. Forney, will appear in the August number, and will be entirely different in subject-matter, treatment, and illustrations from the two preceding articles, which dealt with the construction of the road bed. Mr. Forney will describe the evolution of the modern locomotive from Peter Cooper's engine, which weighed less than a ton, and the typical passenger car from the old stage coach.

Many Atlanta people are making arrangements to visit Tate Springs. This resort has become quite popular with the traveling public, and parties who have been there report an excellent time. The present railroad connections and schedule makes the trip a quick one, going and returning.

THE TELEPHONE.

A Few Hints That Will be of Great Benefit to Both the Operator and Subscriber.

Wonderful progress has been made in the manner of transmitting messages from one part of the city to another, and even from city to city in the past ten years, and it is very difficult to imagine what will be the advancement in the next ten years. If twenty years ago you had said to your neighbor that you would be able to sit in your room and talk with him fifty mikes in another city, he would have unhesitatingly called you an idiot or a fit subject for the lunatic asylum. Yet one of the largest enterprises of the present day is the operation of the telephone system, and by the way, one of the most perplexing of the whole category of profession. For instance, the many calls, ladies not excepted, demands and threats of being reported to the general manager, when, in reality, it is oftener than otherwise not the fault of the office operator, but the person wishing to use the telephone, not being posted as to how to make his calls. Yet they hello away, and, if they can't both hear and see the answer, a volume of threats and a cloud of thunder is hurled at the the operator, which works him up to such a pitch that his nerves are all unstrung, so all hands get out of sorts. By following these instructions much time and annoyance can be avoided: When you go to the telephone you will simply say 23 on 572; the bell rings. You then say send me six bottles Dr. Woolley's Invigorine, which relieves weak nerves, kidney complaints, dyspepsia, constipation, as well as the many troubles incident to the change of life, which is a great blessing to woman. Delays are dangerous and every one should be careful to look well into the matter.
